

RAILROAD HEADS RESPOND TO THE CALL OF PATRIOTISM

YIELD EVERYTHING TO BROTHERHOODS AGREEMENT FOR EIGHT-HOUR DAY AND PAY FOR OVERTIME IS SIGNED Authorize Mediators to Grant Employees Whatever They Deem Necessary to Guarantee Efficient Operation of the Roads.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, March 19.—An agreement was reached here early today between the principals in the railroad controversy, which settles all the points in dispute and definitely disposes of all possibility of a strike. The agreement was signed by the chiefs of the four great railroad brotherhoods and by the executive managers of the railroads.

The decision of the United States Supreme Court on the Adamson eight-hour law, expected today, will not affect the agreement made today in any event. This was stated positively by the principals.

The text of the agreement follows.

"In all road service except passenger where the schedule now reads 'A hundred miles or less, 9 or 10 hours, or less, overtime at 10 or 11 miles per hour,' insert '8 hours or less for a basic day and 12½ miles per hour for a speed basis; for the purpose of computing overtime.' Overtime to be paid for at not less than one-eighth of the daily rate per hour. In all yards switching and hosteling service where the schedule now reads 'ten, eleven or twelve hours or less shall constitute a day's work' insert 'eight hours or less shall constitute a day's work at the present ten hours' pay, overtime to be paid for at not less than one-eighth of the daily rate per hour.'

"In yards now working on an eight-hour basis, the daily rate shall be the present ten-hour standard rate with overtime at one-eighth of the present standard rate.

"In case the law is decided unconstitutional eight hours or less at the present ten-hour pay will constitute a day's work.

"In passenger service the present mileage basis will be maintained on roads now having a flat ten-hour day in passenger service, the rule will be amended to read 'Eight within ten hours.'

"For all classes of employees, in short turn-around passenger service, where the rule now reads 'Eight within twelve hours' it shall be amended to read 'Eight within ten hours.'

"For such territory as has no number of hours for a day's work in short turn-around passenger service the 'eight within ten hour' rule applied.

"Overtime to be paid for at not less than one-eighth of the daily rate per hour.

"The general committee on individual railroads may elect to retain their present overtime rules in short turn-around passenger service or the foregoing provisions, but may not make a combination of both to produce greater compensation than is provided in either basis.

"In the event the law is held to be constitutional, if the foregoing settlement is inconsistent with the decision of the court, the application will be adjusted to the decision.

"If declared unconstitutional, the above stands with all provisions as written.

"The foregoing to govern for such roads, classes of employees and classes of service represented by the national conference committee of the railroads.

"Schedules except as modified by the above changes remain as at present.

agers, addressed to the government mediators:

"Gentlemen: "In the national crisis precipitated by the event of which we learned this afternoon, the national conference committee of the railroads joins with you in the conviction that neither at home nor abroad should there be fear or hope that the efficiency of the railroads of the country will be hampered or impaired.

"Therefore you are authorized to assure the nation that there will be no strike. As the basis for such assurance, we hereby authorize the committee on national defense to grant to the employees who are about to strike whatever adjustments your committee deems necessary to guarantee the united and efficient operation of the railroads as an indispensable arm of the national defenses.

"Yours very truly,

"National Conference Committee of the Railroads."

The brotherhood chiefs and the government mediators worked until well on towards morning on the details of the new working conditions. Railway managers according to Secretary of the Interior Lane, threw all of their objections away in deference to their loyalty to the nation when it became known that three American ships had been sunk. News of the sinking of the ships and President Wilson's decision that there must be no strike was communicated to both sides in the controversy by Secretary Lane after a telephone conversation with President Wilson.

The railway managers with a letter addressed to the government mediators which authorized "The committee on national defense to grant to the employees who are about to strike whatever adjustments your committee deems necessary to guarantee the United States an effective operation of the railroads as an indispensable arm of the national defenses."

When the president's ultimatum was put up to the brotherhood leaders, it is understood, it met with a flat refusal. W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, said the men were sick and tired of arbitration.

Secretary Lane received the communication from the railway managers announcing their capitulation soon after midnight. Brotherhood chiefs who had retired, were immediately summoned from their hotels and went into conference.

Saturday the Brotherhoods extended the time 48 hours for the strike order to go into effect, in order to give time for further negotiations.

The following statement, signed by Secretary Lane, Secretary Wilson, Daniel Willard and Samuel Gompers, was given out after the agreement was signed:

"We desire to express our appreciation of the large and patriotic act of the railway men's committee which has put beyond peradventure the possibility of a nation-wide railroad strike.

"The railroads have met the full demands of the Adamson Eight Hour Law. This concession was secured as the culmination of two days and two nights of negotiations.

"Our first effort was to secure a postponement of the strike which was fixed for Saturday night. This postponement was secured by presenting to the railway managers a memorandum, drafted by the brotherhoods which with some particularity expressed the provisions of the Adamson Law. We asked the railroads to agree that if the Adamson Law was held to be constitutional that this construction and application would be given to it. The railroads agreed to this at a joint session of the brotherhood chiefs and managers, and with much difficulty the chiefs stayed the strike, an act which was vital to the success of our efforts at further mediation.

"We next sought some adjustment that would be effective should the law be held unconstitutional. In this regard many propositions were made to both sides but none was acceptable until the railroads expressed a willingness to place the whole matter in the hands of this committee. This act proceeded, as the letter of the railway managers state, from a desire to demonstrate to the country at large that the railroads would not allow their own conception of railroad policy to stand in the way of the fullest use of the roads at a time of severe national strain.

"The committee considered the matter and decided in view of the action of congress in passing the Adamson Law and the necessity for immediate action, it was best to adopt at once the memorandum agreed upon the previous day, as applicable under all conditions. Thus the proposition of the eight-hour law by agreement between the roads and the men became the basis of settlement and whether the supreme court holds for the validity of the law or against it there will be no strike."

For months past there has been a feeling both among the belligerent and also the neutral nations, that the Russians were showing a strange impotency, and that the empire with such great resource should be much more effectual in the field. That this lethargy should have overcome the giant continued to be a mystery to those who had European welfare at heart, but now the explanation is at hand.

Pro-German influence in the affairs of state has hung like a Damoclean sword over the Romanoffs and over the duma. In the most insidious way this evil genius has worked its way into the affairs of government and up to the very throne.

It was well known in Russia, as indeed it was throughout Europe that the German blood of the czarina and her pro-German sympathies were the real influences operating to stultify the efforts of the nation. The people had long realized that nothing less than a fully equipped army and a full measure of service could prove effectual against their Teuton enemy. Between this resolution and its accomplishment stood the throne.

To the student of European political history this series of circumstances is not without precedent. When the French people at last lost patience with the weak and incompetent monarch and the nugatory assembly, during the reign of Louis XVI, and the thunders of the revolution were beginning to be heard in the distance, it was Marie Antoinette the "Madame Capet" with her ear inclined to her Austrian mother, who was responsible for precipitating the end. True the flight from the Tuilleries was not as successful as the recent escape of the czarina appears to have been, but as every student of history knows the flight with much more dreadful consequences.

GREAT HOPES FOR AWAKENED RUSSIA

Bruce Herrick Sees in the Passing of the Romanoffs from Power the Cessation of Pro-German Influence and Analogy to French Revolution.

To the Editor of The Freeman:

Not since the war began has a happening so significant, so big in future possibilities transpired as the abdication of the Romanoff dynasty in Russia.

For months past there has been a feeling both among the belligerent and also the neutral nations, that the Russians were showing a strange impotency, and that the empire with such great resource should be much more effectual in the field. That this lethargy should have overcome the giant continued to be a mystery to those who had European welfare at heart, but now the explanation is at hand.

Pro-German influence in the affairs of state has hung like a Damoclean sword over the Romanoffs and over the duma. In the most insidious way this evil genius has worked its way into the affairs of government and up to the very throne.

It was well known in Russia, as indeed it was throughout Europe that the German blood of the czarina and her pro-German sympathies were the real influences operating to stultify the efforts of the nation. The people had long realized that nothing less than a fully equipped army and a full measure of service could prove effectual against their Teuton enemy. Between this resolution and its accomplishment stood the throne.

To the student of European political history this series of circumstances is not without precedent. When the French people at last lost patience with the weak and incompetent monarch and the nugatory assembly, during the reign of Louis XVI, and the thunders of the revolution were beginning to be heard in the distance, it was Marie Antoinette the "Madame Capet" with her ear inclined to her Austrian mother, who was responsible for precipitating the end. True the flight from the Tuilleries was not as successful as the recent escape of the czarina appears to have been, but as every student of history knows the flight with much more dreadful consequences.

Fortunately our analogy diverges at this point for with Russian royal family no tragedy resulted. Here we have the picture of a well-meaning but incompetent monarch, when the seething caldron of European politics has plunged his nation into war, torn by internal insurrection on the one hand and pro-German sympathies which most of all are shared by his queen on the other, submitting gracefully if not willingly to the overturning of his throne.

Had the Romanoffs their Vergand to "Tear away the bandage which flattery and intrigue had tied over the eyes of the king" the result might have been different. As it is a new and an awakened Russia, with purpose and integrity, is born. Let us hope that the may go forth to glorious victory for humanity and the welfare of mankind.

SENSE OR HYSTERIA WHICH SHALL IT BE?

Military Preparedness Impressions Made on a Reporter by a Talk With Major Chandler on Army Matters and Other Things.

Here are some impressions of military matters, preparedness, compulsory service, the regular army and the National Guard, gathered by a Freeman reporter from a lengthy talk with Major George Chandler of this city after the major had digested his experiences in Texas. They are not Major Chandler's language—they may not even be precisely the major's ideas, but they are the impressions left in the mind of the reporter after the conversation. If Major Chandler wants to disavow any of them and point out where the reporter misunderstood him or indulged in "journalistic license," which is something like poetic license in that it is an expansion of the imagination in order to make the theme interesting, the columns of The Freeman are open to him. Anyway, here are the impressions the reporter received:

A good private may be made in eight months, but a good officer cannot be made in less than three years of practical training.

The National Guard made a marvelous showing on the border and came back soldiers.

Whatever of failure there was was due mainly to poorly trained and incompetent officers in the regiments that failed to come up to the mark, or to incompetency higher up.

West Point makes the best drillers in the world, but in the process of making, and from the very fact that they are the best privates, they are very poor officers until they gain practical experience and learn to think and act for themselves. Some West Point graduates never gain this power of thinking and acting. These are the curse of the regular army.

The regular army should be maintained for emergency duty, and the National Guard should be just what its name implies, a national guard—the body that defends the nation at home, and does the fighting in case of war.

The National Guard is now organized along the lines of the German system, which the European war has shown to be the best. It should be expanded along these lines to a point at which at least 500,000 young men are in active training all of the time.

If every young man at a given age, say 18 years, was made liable to a year of service in the National Guard, and exemption might be obtained by payment of a certain sum, there would still be enough who would serve to, with those who remained in the guard from choice, make up this quota of 500,000, and the money received from exemptions would so far forward supporting those in the service.

The term of active service should be continuous for the reason that the best training can be given in this way and for the added reason that nobody would employ a young man who was certain to be called into the service for further training at the end of six months or a year. The proposal to train young men for a year or two in instalments of six or three months, with intervals between, is impractical and wasteful, for the reason just stated.

Armory drill is the least part of military training. A few weeks of camp now and then is little better. Continuous field training does the trick. The raw state of the guard when it mobilized and its high state of efficiency when it came home from Texas proves this.

Officing the guard from the regular army or placing it in charge of regular army bureaus is a mistake. It should have its own officers, appointed by the governors of the respective states, and should be directly under control of the president and secretary of war, as in Germany.

In the German system the Kaiser corresponds to the president as head of the nation; the Reichstag to Congress as the legislative and tax-laying body, and the kings, grand dukes, etc., of the various component parts of the German Empire to the governors of the states in the United States. Each state in the German Empire has charge of its troops, appoints the officers, etc., and has direct relations with the Kaiser and the minister at the head of army affairs of the empire. When in the service of the empire these troops retain their organization and officers. They constitute the army of the empire.

In like manner our National Guard should be maintained as at present and any compulsory military service should be in the Guard, under the direct control of the states, with officers appointed by the governors, who should not be superseded or interfered with by the regular army. Through its own general staff, the guard should be in direct relation with the president and secretary of war.

With the present regular army interference, there is no incentive to a guardsman to remain in the service and work for promotion, for the regular army has drawn a dead line that kills hope and ambition.

Let those who desire to remain permanently in the guard and become professional soldiers do so and be drawn upon for Guard officers to command and drill.

Under the plan of partial compulsory service outlined above, military drill and service would merely be a part of the education of every young man not exempted. It would not follow that he had to be a soldier or

THREE AMERICAN SHIPS SUNK BY SUBMARINES

IS THIS, AT LAST, THE "OVERT ACT?" ALL WERE PLAINLY MARKED WITH AMERICAN FLAGS ON SIDES

Two of the Ships Sunk Were in Ballast, Offering no Excuse for Sinking Them in Order to Maintain a Blockade—Uncertain How Many of Crews are Missing.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, March 19.—Destruction by German submarine of three more United States steamships—one of them without warning. It is reported—has brought German-American relations to the most acute stage reached since the beginning of the Kaiser's unrestricted submarine warfare, according to opinions expressed in official circles here today.

The victim ships were:— City of Memphis, 5,252 tons, of Savannah, Ga.

Illinois, 5,225 tons, of New York.

Vigilancia, 4,115 tons, of Perth Amboy, N. J.

It was reported without confirmation that twenty-two men, 14 from the Vigilancia and eight from the city of Memphis, were missing.

A despatch from Queenstown stated that the boat in which Captain Borum and eight men from the crew of the City of Memphis took refuge was picked up empty on Sunday.

This indicated that the men had left the steamer, and that the boat had then been turned adrift.

had to fight—it would merely prepare him to fight effectively if he ever had to.

In the event of war, it would not be the new recruits that would do the fighting at first, but the more efficient men who had completed their training and gone into the reserve. The reserve would really be the army in time of war, because it would be composed of the men whose training had been completed.

This plan of training should be carried out by expanding the Guard as it now stands and selecting the officers from the present Guard.

Such a plan would give all competent guard officers "a step up" and would make places for efficient privates as non-commissioned officers.

Germany may have gone to the opposite extreme, but we are too individualistic here, there is too much fake "personal liberty." We are too far away from unity, one of the first laws of nature.

The Chamberlain bill provides a perfect rift of promotion for the regular army but fixes the dead line at captain for a guard officer who is transferred to the regular army. It will give us a lot of officers with nobody for them to command.

The Guard always gets blamed for the mistakes of the regular army. In 1895 the 71st Regiment was served with black powder cartridges and then because of the smoke it would raise was forbidden to fire. It required more courage to lay there idle than to take part in the battle yet the 71st was charged with cowardice because it did not fire.

Being a drillmaster is a profession and proficiency in it has nothing to do with efficiency as an officer in the field.

Competent officers, men of common sense, courage, experience and self-control, are an elemental necessity. In Texas one regiment went to pieces on a hike because its officers lost their heads. The men were just as good as the men in any other regiment, but their officers were incompetent, got "rattled" and turned the regiment into a mob. Officers should have more experience, more practice, than privates, just as the head of any great factory must be an able man rather than the laborers whose duties he directs.

The mobilization of the Guard in 1916 was of great value in that it brought out points of difference between theory and practice, at a time when failure did not endanger the country. There should be similar mobilization in future, on short notice, to test the practical working of plans. On the whole the mobilization was a success. It was the first time that plans had been tested by practice, and there were weak spots found and remedied. In some instances it was the personal equation that made trouble—the wrong man on the job. It is foolish to send an experienced and capable field officer to West Point to teach Spanish or to place a perfectly good professor of languages in charge of issuing supplies. In the one case a good field

Between 50 and 40 refugees, about 15 of them Americans, were landed here and in this neighborhood. None of them had been wounded by the Germans but many of them are suffering from shock and exposure.

Wesley Frost, the United States consul at Queenstown, is caring for the stranded Americans and is investigating the sinking of the three ships.

The City of Memphis was bound from Cardiff for New York in ballast when she was attacked and sunk on Saturday night. Refugees from her crew said that she went down in a few minutes with the Stars and Stripes flying.

The Vigilancia, it was stated, was torpedoed without warning. She carried a general cargo from New York for Havre. The Illinois, a tank steamer, was bound from London to New York in ballast.

British newspapers today ask the question: "What will President Wilson do now?"

English editors contend that the Germans cannot defend the sinking of the empty ships bound away from England except on the ground they were violating the prescriptions of Germany's declaration of ruthless U-boat warfare.

Washington, March 19.—The United States today remained in the position of maintaining a status of armed neutrality. On the decision of the president hinged whether this position was to be changed before congress acts.

The fact that all three of the vessels destroyed were plainly marked with the Stars and Stripes on their sides, and that two of them were homeward bound in ballast, has added to the bitterness of feeling here. Officials declare that this is the best proof that no effort has been made by Germany to discriminate in favor of American ships.

There is no longer any doubt in official circles that the German announcement that all vessels encountered in the barred zone will be sent to the bottom without warning is to be carried out to the very letter.

Only a few senators are left in Washington but those who are here and who would discuss the situation are inclined to be warlike in their utterances.

Secretary Lansing went into conference with President Wilson at 11:10 a. m. He said there was nothing to say at this time.

Counsellor Polk, of the state department, was asked whether the department had construed the sinking of the American vessels as "an act of war."

"The situation is too serious to discuss," he said.

It was stated that the department would make all facts bearing on the situation public as soon as possible.

Suggestions that congress be called into session immediately have been pouring into the White House ever since yesterday. The president, however, has not made up his mind what will be done.

MARKET TAKES NEWS QUIETLY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, March 19.—Nearly everything on the list was established at a materially higher level in the first fifteen minutes trading, on the stock exchange today. Steel Common rose ½ to 113½, and Bethlehem Steel B stock 1¼ to 122½. U. S. Rubber, Central Leather and Ohio Cities Gas each rose about a point, and fractional gains were made in many other issues. The railway issues were not materially influenced by the action taken by the managers in granting all the brotherhoods demands. Union Pacific rose ¼ to 137½, Reading ¼ to 36, and Southern Railway ¼ to 28½. Erie, however, declined ¼ to 36. After the early trading the gains in the railway issues were generally lost. Steel Common after opening ¾ up at 30, declined to 28½, and the preferred, which opened at 87, declined to 85½. The copper shares, after making fractional gains at the opening, reacted to the initial prices.

POVERTY AND DRINK

TO what extent the present suffering among the poor is due to the use of liquor nobody knows. But there are hosts of hungry people whose sufferings are due to unjust economic conditions and not at all to drink, said a prominent clergyman in a recent newspaper article.

It has been clearly demonstrated that as working people improve their industrial conditions the tendency to use strong drink has decreased and light beer like our

MAKING GOOD ROADS.

Highway Betterment Has Improved the Value of Farm Land.

In the results of inquiries made by federal officers who are supervising the use of $50,000,000 appropriated for the improvement of roads there is nothing more instructive and interesting than the proof that road betterment has greatly increased the market value of farm land, says the New York Times. A careful investigation was made in eight representative counties, covering a period of five years. The record of many actual transactions shows that the selling price of farm land within one mile of the improved roads has been largely increased, in one county by 104 per cent, the additions to value being from two to three times the cost of the road work.

The law which appropriates $50,000,000 to be expended in five years, with the condition that states spend an equal sum in carrying out an improvement program, has been in effect for six months. While only one state has met all the requirements of it, others have made a beginning, and all will eventually undertake to do their share. In several states delay is due to the need of new legislation. Careful preparation has been made by the department of agriculture at Washington for expert supervision and inspection of the improvements for which $100,000,000 will be paid. It should be noted that the statute requires local governments to maintain the new roads in good condition.

Daniel Webster's Warning.

The last hopes of mankind, therefore, rest with us; and if it should be proclaimed that our example had become an argument against the experiment, the knell of popular liberty would be sounded throughout the earth.—Daniel Webster.

"I am not easily flattered," she said. "Indeed not," he replied. "It would be difficult to make you out to be more beautiful than you really are."

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

1909.—A New Coat Dress for Misses and Small Women.

This model is ideal for the new fall serges and gabardines and would be real smart in velvet, satin, corduroy or taffeta. The dress has yoke portions, beneath which the dress is plaited. Its fullness is confined at the waistline by a broad belt. Jaunty shaped cuffs and pockets, and a smart sailor collar, complete a very stylish effect. Added to that is the fact that this model is comfortable and practical.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 14, 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 16 requires 6 yards of 44 inch material. The dress measures about 3 yards at the foot.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Catalogue Notice.

Send 10 cents in silver or stamps for our up-to-date 1917 large Spring and Summer Fashion Catalogue, containing over 550 designs of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Garments in Current Fashions, a Concise and Comprehensive Article on Dressmaking, also some points for the Needle, (illustrating 30 of the various, simple stitches), all valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

A Complete Manual in Crochet and Tatting!

Just what you will say when you get our instruction book, "Our Crochet and Tatting Book," contains more than 50 pictures illustrating designs such as lace, net, etc., and, in fact, all the latest styles in making up the article. This complete manual will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents in stamps or silver.

Words of frank cheer, glances of friendly eyes. Love's smallest coin, which yet to some may give The morsel that may keep alive a starving heart.

DRIED APRICOTS.

Apricots dried are more valuable as a food than in the fresh stage, the water is evaporated and sugar is added making a more concentrated food with all the aroma, flavor and color still present.

Dried apricots steamed and put through a sieve, using sugar and cream, a pinch of salt, then frozen, makes a most dainty ice cream of delicious flavor.

Apricot shortcake is the ordinary shortcake served with stewed apricots and the sauce thickened slightly, with a little butter added for richness.

Raisin Pie de Luxe.—Stew together a cupful of seeded raisins and a quarter of a cupful of currants (dried) in a pint of apricot juice. Add three tablespoonfuls of butter and two egg yolks and a tablespoonful or two of lemon juice, sugar if needed, cook slightly. Put into a shell, previously baked, cover with a meringue made with the whites of the two eggs and four tablespoonfuls of sugar.

Fifteen-Minute Pudding.—Take a cupful of flour, a quarter of a teaspoonful of salt and a teaspoonful of baking powder, sift together and add just enough rich milk to make a drop batter. Butter some cups, either custard or any pudding cups, put into each a spoonful of the drop batter, then drop in two or three apricots with a tablespoonful of the juice, add another spoonful of the dough on top, then put into a pan of boiling water to steam, allowing the cups to set in the water, not too deep, as the water will boil into the cups. Cover tightly and cook 15 minutes. Serve with whipped cream with a few chopped apricots stirred into it.

Apricot dumplings may be made as one does apple dumplings: roll two or three pieces of the fruit in a square of biscuit dough, cover the dumplings with the apricot juice with bits of butter and bake for a half hour in a hot oven.

A coffee cake is made quite fancy by rows of stewed apricots placed on top just before it goes into the oven. Such a cake may be served hot with a sauce for a dessert if so desired.

This Poor Girl Crowned a King!

Who in the world has not heard
"Joan the Woman?"

Imagination is nature's greatest gift to man.

Joan of Arc had a vision. "Voices" told her she would crown a King of France.

Joan of Arc was a peasant girl, who could neither read nor write.

But she believed her "voices" and obeyed their message and her name will live to eternity.

Not every poor girl may crown a
King—there are not enough kings.

But the story of Joan of Arc—as told in the most wonderful motion picture ever made, "Joan the Woman," is an inspiration to every girl to-day.

You, who are ambitious, should see it.

You, who are slipping in life's nettle, will find help in its human lesson.

KINGSTON TO HAVE MAMMOTH GARAGE

Title has been given today by G.
V. and C. H. Merritt to N. A. Brown and Fred W. Phillips of New York, for a tract of land on Clinton avenue, opposite Sherwood Lodge, for the building of a garage which will be named Clinton Garage.

The garage will be the largest one between New York and Albany and the firm contemplate giving the people of Kingston the finest appearing and equipped building in the city, as they have visited several up-to-date garages throughout the large cities and have embodied in their plans all the best features of the modern garages. One of the features of this garage, which is of great interest to the automobile owners of Kingston and the surrounding towns will be the machine shop, where all kinds of work can be done, which heretofore, motorists have had to send to New York or to the factories to be repaired. When completed this machine shop will be the most finely equipped in the state.

The front of the building will be Vetone, Ht Tex Pennsylvania brick, trimmed with marble, and the sides and rear will be concrete blocks and brick.

The garage will have a large show room and fully equipped ladies' resting room on one side of the entrance and the office and stock room will be located on the other side, while in the center of the building will be two driveways, an entrance and exit, built like all the modern garages, which obviates any inconvenience to the patrons in entering or leaving, and in addition to this there will be raised walks on either side of the driveways leading to the rooms, which will enable visitors to enter any part of the building without going through the driveways.

The entire roof of the building will be spanned so as to eliminate posts and a modern system of skylights and ventilators will be installed.

The floor throughout the building will be concrete finished with a new process which gives the appearance of a tile surface.

Mr. Phillips comes to Kingston with an extensive experience in the high class automobile repairing, having conducted an automobile machine shop in New York city for a number of years, and numbered among his patrons some of the largest commercial houses in the city, such as the Robert Gair Company, who have a fleet of 65 auto trucks; the Reid Ice Cream Company, the Alex Campbell
Milk Company, the Z. O. Nelson &
Sons Coal Company, and Mr. Phillips recently completed a year's work making garages for E. W. Bliss, projectile manufacturers, who have extensive ammunition contracts for the Allies.

Mr. Brown is well known in this city, having been in business here for several years.

The construction office is now nearly completed, and the premises and work will commence at once.

Rosedale Five Defeated.

British Claim Great Success.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
 London, March 19.—The Allies' victory on the Somme front in France is now complete, but the offensive of the British and French continues in full swing. With Bapaume, Peronne and Comblies in their hands, the Allies have the three big objectives that they set out to take from the Germans.

British and French soldiers have now captured about 1,000 square miles of ground from the Germans between Arras and the Aisne, but principally on the Somme front, since the grand offensive opened on July 1, 1916. The advance at some points was about 15 miles.

Camel Cigarettes

are wide-open for comparison with any cigarette at any price! Most sensitive smokers appreciate the pleasure of Camel quality, purity and wholesomeness. They prefer it to premiums or coupons! Camels are free from any unpleasant cigarette after-taste!

Camels are blended choice Turkish and choice Domestic tobaccos; you'll prefer their flavor and mild smoothness to either kind of tobacco smoked straight! That desirable, satisfying "body" is all there—without any comeback!

Camels are sold everywhere in scientifically sealed packages, 20 for 10c, or ten packages, 200 cigarettes in a glassine paper-covered carton for $1.00. It's strongly recommended this carton for the home or office supply or when you travel.

The stamp placed over and seals the package, which keeps out air thereby preserving the quality of the blended tobaccos. By inserting the fingers as illustrated, the stamp easily breaks without tearing the tin foil which folds back into its place.

Thought He Might Be Curious.

One day when riding in the country with their parents the children were obliged to sit in the back of the big fly. It was quite comfortable if they sat still, but a trifle small for much turning about, so there were numerous cautions to be careful not to fall out. When little brother was observed gazing intently down the road his sister questioned him thus: "What you took back for; to see if you fell out?"

Powers of Flying Lemur.

The flying lemur lives in the Indian archipelago. It is from two to three feet in length, and is furnished with a sort of membrane on each side of its body connecting its limbs with each other. This is extended and acts as a parachute while it takes its leaps, from a higher to a lower place. Sometimes it will soar from a distance of 300 feet, or about the length of a city block.

But Don't Tear His Shirt.

The woman advanced ominously. "Are you the teacher that tore Henry's shirt?" "Yes." "What did you do it for?" "Because Henry was naughty and wouldn't behave. To make him listen to me I took him by the collar, and he broke away." The woman swung the ball bat toward the teacher. "Next time he don't behave," she said, "you hit him with this."—Newark News.

Soap as Germ Destroyer.

Lately medical science has been trying to find out to what degree the chemical action of soap can be depended upon as a destroyer of germs. Professor Symes, after experimenting with many varieties of soap, declares that "all soaps possess antiseptic properties in some degree, and that any germs rubbed into soap or dropped upon its surface are not capable of multiplication."

POVERTY AND DRINK

TO what extent the present suffering among the poor is due to the use of liquor nobody knows. But there are hosts of hungry people whose sufferings are due to unjust economic conditions and not at all to drink, said a prominent clergyman in a recent newspaper article.

It has been clearly demonstrated that as working people improve their industrial conditions the tendency to use strong drink has decreased and light beer like our has been substituted. In such instances greater industry and sobriety always follow.

Stand by workers when they battle against poverty! For while drink drives many a man to poverty, poverty also drives many a man to drink!

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

1909.—A New Coat Dress for Misses and Small Women.

This model is ideal for the new fall styles and gingham and would be real smart in velvet, satin, corduroy or taffeta. The dress has yoke portions, beneath which the dress is plaited. Its fulness is contained at the waistline by a broad belt. Jaunty shaped cuffs and pockets, and a smart sailor collar, complete a very stylish effect. Adapted to that is the fact that this model is comfortable and practical.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 14, 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 16 requires 6 yards of 44 inch material. The dress measures about 3 yards at the foot.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 25 cents in silver or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Its fulness is contained at the waistline by a broad belt. Jaunty shaped cuffs and pockets, and a smart sailor collar, complete a very stylish effect. Adapted to that is the fact that this model is comfortable and practical.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 14, 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 16 requires 6 yards of 44 inch material. The dress measures about 3 yards at the foot.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 25 cents in silver or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

The KITCHEN CABINET

Words of frank cheer, glances of friendly eyes. Love's smallest coin, which yet to some may give The morsel that may keep alive a starving heart.

DRIED APRICOTS.

Apricots dried are more valuable as a food than in the fresh stage, the water is evaporated and sugar is added making a more concentrated food with all the aroma, flavor and color still present.

Dried apricots steamed and put through a sieve, using sugar and cream, a pinch of salt, then frozen, makes a most dainty ice cream of delicious flavor.

Apricot shortcake is the ordinary shortcake served with stewed apricots and the sauce thickened slightly, with a little butter added for richness.

Raisin Pie de Luxe.—Stew together a cupful of seeded raisins and a quarter of a cupful of currants (dried) in a pint of apricot juice. Add three tablespoonfuls of butter and two egg yolks and a tablespoonful or two of lemon juice, sugar if needed, cook slightly. Put into a shell, previously baked, cover with a meringue made with the whites of the two eggs and four tablespoonfuls of sugar.

Fifteen-Minute Pudding.—Take a cupful of flour, a quarter of a teaspoonful of salt and a teaspoonful of baking powder, sift together and add just enough rich milk to make a drop batter. Butter some cups, either custard or any pudding cups, put into each a spoonful of the drop batter, then drop in two or three apricots with a teaspoonful of the juice, and another spoonful of the dough on top, then put into a pan of boiling water to steam, allowing the cups to set in the water, not too deep, as the water will boil into the cups. Cover tightly and cook 15 minutes. Serve with whipped cream with a few chopped apricots stirred into it.

Apricot dumplings may be made as one does apple dumplings: roll two or three pieces of the fruit in a square of biscuit dough, cover the dumplings with the apricot juice with bits of butter and bake for a half hour in a hot oven.

A coffee cake is made quite fancy by rows of stewed apricots placed on top just before it goes into the oven. Such a cake may be served hot with a sauce for a dessert if so desired.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MARCH 19, 1917.

Everybody will be glad that the nationwide railroad strike is off even though all cannot express satisfaction with the methods by which some outward show of agreement was effected between the employers and the Brotherhoods. If anybody is entitled to credit for smoothing out this serious internal situation, it would seem to be the Kaiser. Certainly, the condition created by the activity of the German U-boats in sinking three American merchant ships called for patriotic action from all parties to the controversy. But did the Gomperses, the Clones and the Lees seize upon this opportunity to proclaim their loyalty to the nation in the face of this fresh international complication? Not noticeably. It was the representatives of the soulless corporations that came to the rescue. The statement of the National Conference Committee of the Railways, addressed to the Government mediators, is a model of brevity and patriotic conception of duty. Mr. Gompers did not appear at the deliberations. The employees' representatives stood pat. In view of these plain facts, there can be no doubt of the attitude of the railroad corporations. While organizations of their employees have been talking of patriotic intention, the action came from the managers. The temptation to let the strike go on must have been strong with the latter for if there was ever a proposition without public sympathy and support, it was this very plan of the Brotherhoods to secure a wage increase under the guise of limiting hours and to invoke a strike as a means to that end.

Mr. Gompers is a member of the Committee on National Defense and it is to this body that the railroad heads have delegated their own powers of adjusting the demands of the men. To our understanding this seems to be arbitration, such as the Brotherhoods childishly refused, even though the system proposed appears to be more or less one-sided with the government committee and the railroad workers having the final say. The final agreement will go to the railroad managers who have already approved these findings, no matter what their provisions. The only comforting thing for the public is the final decision that there will be no strike. Even though the popular sentiment is not with the Brotherhoods in our belief, no one wants to undergo such a tie-up as that proposed to begin Saturday night. Especially is this true at a time when war with a foreign power seems only a matter of hours. In the last few hours the Adamson law and the imminent Supreme Court decision thereon are not given the slightest consideration so great has been the reaction against this bit of legislation. The kaleidoscope changes in the railroad situation these last few months are sufficient to puzzle the keenest of students of this phase of our industrial welfare. The one thing that stands out paramount is the splendid spirit manifested by the railroads, which is in startling contrast with the stop watch held by the train hands at a time of National peril.

The Legislature will adjourn probably in April but already the State budget is before both houses, a businesslike proceeding which is a distinct novelty at Albany. Heretofore, the appropriation bills have remained in the custody of the committees in charge of the same until within a few days previous to adjournment and for many years the passage of the same has been scandalous in its lack of attention to details and in the extravagance made possible by the absence of publicity. While the Legislature is looking over the items, State officials may be interrogated as to the purpose of proposed expenditures and the lawmakers may assert something of their constitutional powers in curtailments after obtaining full information as to the plans. If Governor Whitman and a Republican administration had accomplished no more than this distinct reform through the passage of the Sage budget law, their labors in behalf of a sound business policy for the State would not have been in vain. Spending money in private or public business, is a matter requiring careful consideration. The Legislature is supposed to have scrutinized appropriation bills carefully but it is a matter of record that haste has made waste in innumerable ble instances in former years when appropriation measures were always jammed through during the closing of the sessions.

New York State has taken the lead over the Federal Government in the matter of military training. Under the new measure, recently signed by Governor, compulsory military training is provided for boys between 16 and 19 years of age. It is a sensible and useful enactment and one that we wish had been in force during our own school days. Many men, now in their prime, would have been better citizens through such beneficial exercise had it been available during the time they were in their teens. Vocational training and practical experience, which may count in preparation for defense, are provided for in the act, it being left to the discretion of the Military Training Commission to fix the extent to which such accomplishment shall meet the technical military requirements set forth. It is not militarism but merely a sane provision for the welfare of our youth as well as for the safety of the State. The Empire State has had the courage to meet this problem and we have no doubt but that the plan will work out successfully and inculcate in our young manhood ideals of obedience, patriotism and health as well as an ability and readiness to respond to their country's call should the need for their services ever arise.

Daddy Wasn't Her Comrade.

A friend had a little girl who was greatly attached to a dog, Dandy, which had been her playmate from her babyhood. But Dandy was getting old and feeble and tiring even of a dog's life, so it was decided to hasten his departure to the paradise of dogs. As Marie was excited and hysterical, the mother dreaded to tell her of the separation from her pet, but after luncheon she said: "My dear, Dandy is sick and old and cannot enjoy life longer, so we are going to give him something and without any pain he will sleep and never wake." To her surprise the child made no protest, but a short time after she heard screams from the nursery and found Marie in hysterics. To her inquiries as to the cause, between her sobs Marie managed to say: "Nurse says Dandy is going to die." But I told you so at luncheon," replied the mother. "Oh!" sobbed the child, "I thought you said daddy."—The Christian Herald.

PROFITABLE SOIL CULTURE

CORN PLANTING METHODS.

Fundamentals of Culture, Especially Under Droughty Conditions.

Special planting methods often must be used for corn in regions where either moisture or heat is insufficient. Listing, or planting in furrows, is the most common and best method of planting corn in a large part of the semiarid area. It is not only economical, as it permits large acreages to be handled at the least cost, but it also places the plants to the best advantage to withstand drought. As the furrows

A western Kansas cornfield, showing rows seven feet apart. While spaces between rows retain a part of the soil moisture for the critical or ear forming period, cultivation and the drilling of wheat, peas or beans in the corn are made easier, as well as the harvesting of the corn.

are closed by cultivation, the plant roots are placed well below the surface. A deep soil mulch can be maintained without injury to the roots. The plants are more securely braced to withstand winds than when surface planted.

In some semiarid sections early summer conditions are favorable for rapid growth. The plants make a tender, rapid growth and become larger than the later moisture supply will support. Listing retards this rapid early growth and is often a decided advantage on this account.

Where the seasons are very short surface planting is better than listing, as the retarding of early growth leaves the plants insufficient time to reach maturity. Where surface planting is practiced on fairly level land it is usually advisable to plant in checks to permit cross cultivation. Cross cultivation makes weed and grass control easier. It also assists cultivation, drying and warming a larger part of the soil surface.

A thin stand of plants is an essential feature of successful corn growing in regions of limited moisture supply. When planting is done with a lister in rows three to three and one-half feet apart the plants should be one in a place and from eighteen to thirty-six inches apart, depending upon the rain fall and the fertility and the water holding capacity of the soil. In surface planted corn with the hills three and one-half feet apart each way the stand should not be thicker than two plants per hill. Even with the best of seed more kernels should be planted than the number of plants desired. Some young plants, mostly the weaker ones, will perish.

The usual distance between corn rows is about three and one-half feet, which is a convenient distance for cultivating. With the rows at this distance the roots meet between the rows and occupy all of the upper soil before the corn comes into tassel.

In certain droughty sections, where the seasons are comparatively long, increasing the width of row to seven feet and doubling the stand in the row has been found to be an advantage. Where the summers are long other crops or another crop of corn can be planted later in the season between the seven foot rows if the seasonal rainfall proves sufficient.

Corn should not be covered with more than one and one-half or two inches of soil except when the surface is dry and it is necessary to plant deep or to reach moist soil. In cold, heavy soils one inch is sufficient.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

Cut out all dead trees about the place and make firewood of them.

One quarter acre of berries will not cost much to plant, and it will give an abundance of fruit the season through.

There is still time to do some root grafting of apples. The cion should be two or three times as long as the root.

Plan to do some topworking this spring. This is a good way to get returns from unproductive trees that are thrifty.

When ordering seed for the garden try some vegetables you have not used before. Salsify, Swiss chard and endive are good sorts to try.

The Wealthy is one of the most widely grown and profitable of the fall apples. It is a money maker, even in apple districts.

DRAPED SKIRTS.

The Peg Top Has Brought
in Tassels and Jackets.

The really, truly newest yet in all-houette is that affected by the draped skirt, worn with flowing sleeves, ball tassel sash ends and wide spreading hat.

How this type of skirt is devised is interesting. It looks like a straight, rather narrow skirt, cut extra long, then just looped up on each side to shorten it to the required length, giving a puffed effect that somewhat resembles the barrel, the peg top, or whatever you care to call the side inflated appearance of some of the new skirts.

Tassels form the finish for the draping of these skirts, and the effect is really pleasing, especially when the fabric is one that drapes softly.

An interesting model of this type recently seen was a fine dress serge, decorated with a twelve inch banding of hand embroidery, done in a contrasting color, the tassels being of the embroidery color.

Following in the trend of the draped skirt is the flounce skirt, with a close fitting under or drop foundation. And then the long, tunic skirt, with flaring pockets on each hip.

Then there is the straight, gathered skirt, flaring at the hem; then a straight line skirt, not more than two yards and many times less than this, with a short, full tunic, either plaited or gathered.

Some straight skirts have a cute little apron tunic, plaited and set across the front of the skirt. Other straight skirts have an apron tunic effect back and front, the back apron being longer than the front.

Next comes, quite as a matter of course, the perfectly slim, straight skirt, close and trim and fashionably short, a fitting mate for the slim, straight jacket with which it is designed to be worn.

FOR BIRD LOVERS.

Hints About the Care of Your Canary Each Day.

Canary birds are a joy when they sing and such comfort for a home-maker when she is alone, but they surely make a great deal of mess. Most women find that the cages really should be cleaned every day and the floor under which they hang brushed at the same time. If several pieces of paper cut the shape of the bottom of the cage are used the cage will only have to be cleaned once a week.

Each day lift the top piece of paper out, and the next piece will be spotless. A good plan which bird lovers often use is to make a bag for the cage.

This bag may serve a double purpose if wanted. Make it long enough to fit the entire cage, so that it may be tied all over at night to protect the bird from the glaring light and cold. In the day this same cover may be tied about the middle of the cage. It is held in place by a drawstring. This prevents the bird from throwing the seeds on the floor. Marquisette and dotted swiss are good materials for this purpose.

The Linoleum Rug.

If you have an irregularly shaped kitchen and rent your house instead of owning it do not try to cover the entire kitchen floor with linoleum. Probably it will not fit the new kitchen when you move, and it is rather expensive to have it cut to fit the kitchen where you are. Instead, have a large linoleum rug made, just as you would have in any other room, and have it bound with dark tape. Leave a border around it two feet or so, and have this oiled and finished so that the floor can be wiped with a mop and dusted.

Pastel Shades in Veils.

Among the daintiest dresses for wear at semitropical resorts or for summer are those made of fine cotton voile in pastel shades and in white. Tan, Copenhagen blue, gray, wistaria, hedge and light rose are taking well. In straight line styles white with touches of hand embroidery or beading in soft colors is also selling freely.

Compensatory.

Life is compensatory to this extent: When a man reaches the point at which his wife is compelled to make the living for the family he has also reached the point at which the fact ceases to humiliate him.—Topeka Capital.

Same Gown at VanWagenen's,

Kingston — $42.50

The exact duplicate of a gown worn at the recent Fashion Show of the VanWagenen Store was seen by a prominent Kingston woman in one of the biggest and swellest New York stores on Saturday. It was $59, while the dress at Kingston Store can be purchased for 42.50

All of the costumes exhibited at the Opera House were conspicuous for the fineness and newness of material as well as beauty and style of design. But the women of Kingston will be greatly surprised, on calling at the VanWagenen Store, to find how very reasonable in price even the most expensive looking dresses, suits and coats really are. And they will find many garments of equal attractiveness which have not been displayed at all.

Not a Woman
Of Finance

By WILLIAM CHANDLER

I'm not a new woman's man. I believe in the woman of the past, the dear, innocent creature who depended on man for everything. I'm married to a woman who will never trouble me by telling me how I should manage my business. Adele knows no more of business than a kitten knows about untangling a ball of yarn.

One evening soon after Adele and I were engaged I went to see her and found her in a very happy mood. She told me that her father, in order to prepare her for certain responsibilities that she might encounter as a wife, had put $500 in the bank to her credit for my troussau and had given her a pass book and a check book. Her father showed her how to enter her deposits and bring down her balances in her check book. Occasionally she was to hand in her pass book, have it balanced and see that the balance brought down in it was the same as the balance in her check book.

A month later, when I went to see Adele, I found her in tears.

"What's the matter, dearest?" I asked, drawing her to me and kissing away the tears.

"I'm in awful trouble."

"Tell me. Perhaps I can help you."

"Why, you know papa put the money for my troussau in the bank and gave me a check book. When I had used up the money I left my pass book in the bank to be balanced. On its return to me I was delighted to see that I still had more than $200 in bank. Several additional garments I needed made up $197. I bought them and gave checks for them. This morning the clerk at the bank telephoned me that my account was overdrawn $100, and this afternoon my milliner accused me of giving her a check for $97 on a bank where I had no money. She threatened to send me to prison, but papa satisfied her by giving her another check on his own bank. Don't you think it was very mean of my bank to treat me that way?"

I told her she probably had not considered that all the checks she had given out had not been presented for payment when she received her pass book from the bank, but failing to make her understand the problem, I agreed with her that the bank had treated her shamefully. What could have been more refreshing than the dear girl spending $700 instead of $500 for her troussau and blaming the bank for refusing to stand the difference? I regretted that the knot between us had not been tied, depriving me of the privilege of turning in a couple of hundred more to meet the deficiency.

Not long after this the telephone bell called me, and Adele poured another trouble over the wire.

"Oh, Frank," she moaned, "I have lost $50!"

"How did you do that, pet?"

"Why, I drew a check for that amount to pay a bill at Osterhauser's. Edie got hold of it and tore it into bits. I have nothing left to pay the bill and am ashamed to go to papa for any more money."

What a chance for me to make a gift to my sweetheart that etiquette forbade!

"I'll tell you what to do, darling. I'll give Osterhauser's a check for your bill. We are to be married so soon that it will be all right for me to do so."

"Oh, no; I couldn't do that!"

"Well, then, draw another check for the amount, and I will put my name on the back of it."

"Of course it will."

"And you won't be paying the bill?"

"Certainly not."

This satisfied her, and she had no more trouble with her finances until a few days before our wedding, when she was threatened with arrest for forgery. This is how it happened:

She had spent over $1,200 for her troussau, and there were still bills outstanding. Her father, being called out of town, had told her that if any amounts that must be paid came in during his absence she was to draw checks for them in his check book on his own bank. He would notify the bank that she was authorized to sign for him.

Money was needed during his absence, and Adele drew a check on the bank, signing her father's name, but not adding to the signature, "By Adele."

The person who presented the check was accused of having forged the signature. He declared that he had received it from Adele and was so indignant at the fraud perpetrated against him that he swore out a warrant for her arrest. Her father being absent, I was sent for posthaste. Examining the check, I saw that she had imitated her father's signature.

"Why did you do that?" I asked.

"Why, I thought I should write it as near like papa would as possible."

I settled the matter by explaining it and giving my own check in place of it.

When Adele's father came home he received an apology from the bank for having declined to pay the check drawn by his daughter according to his directions. The clerk had not known that a woman existed who was not aware that imitation of a signature is forgery and forgery is a crime.

My wife and I have been married for ten years, and I do not regret her stupidity in financial affairs. I take care of such matters myself. She has all she can do to look out for the children. There are many things in her sphere about which I am as stupid as she is in mine.

Peculiar Superstition.

If fake teeth could talk, they would tell strange tales. A farmer's wife attributed her good luck with a certain kind of delicious cookie for which she was famous to the fact that the mold with which she always cut out the cookies was a set of false teeth willed to her by an aunt who, in her time, had been able to cook to beat the band. Success crowned her culinary efforts because she worked with this weird and unwieldy crescent of worn-out teeth. Thus doth superstition lead us captive!

Air Resistance in Tunnels.

When a train goes through a tunnel the resistance of the air is an important factor, experiments having demonstrated that it measures 13.99 pounds per ton of train weight in the Simplon tunnel, as against only 8.5 pounds in the open air, a difference of over 50 per cent. This is when the train is running at 37 miles an hour in the direction of the ventilating air current; when running in the opposite direction the resistance increases to 20.46 pounds.

Ferns That Grow Everywhere.

Two ferns are common throughout the world. One is the common brake found on the floors of all California canyons, known as pteridium aquilinum. The other is the polypoid found on rocky canyon sides and known here as polypodium Californicum, and elsewhere, the world over as Polypodium vulgare. The specific differences are due entirely to geographic range.

More Acceptable Than Money.

It is not written blessed is he that feedeth the poor, but he that considereth the poor. A little thought and a little kindness are often worth more than a great deal of money.—Ruskin.

BEER contains about 92 per cent. water and about 5 per cent. of extract derived from hops and cereals, principally Barley malt, and only about 3 to 4 per cent. alcohol.

Beer in the Great War

Long ago the French Government officially classified beer, wine and cider as "boissons hygieniques" (hygienic beverages) and that it adheres to this view is evinced by its legislation prompted by the European War, which does not interfere with these products, though it does restrict the use of heavy spirituous liquors and prohibits only the manufacture and sale of absinthe.

Great Britain, despite the protests of some total abstinence organizations, continues to license the sale of alcoholic beverages.

The German Government, recognizing the value of beer, issues it as a ration to the Army, and has requisitioned 20 per cent. of the entire output of all the breweries for this purpose.

Although Canada has prohibitory laws in nearly all of its provinces, it permits the unlicensed sale of beer and all alcoholic beverages testing less than two and a half per cent. proof spirits, that is, about one and one-quarter per cent. by weight.

Italy, Serbia and Montenegro have made no restrictions on drink.

Russia has prohibited vodka but gives Local Communities the optional right of selling beer and other fermented beverages.

A recent London Hospital Report says:

"Beer is, par excellence, the nutritive alcoholic beverage. When a man drinks beer he drinks and eats at the same time, just as when he eats a bowl of soup. These beverages contain all the elements of a typical diet, with the exception of fat, and in a proportion approximately physiological."

SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS ADAMSON EIGHT HOUR LAW

Men Gain Shorter Work Day and Lose Right to Strike, Employees of Public Service Corporations Being Like Soldiers, Who May Not Desert--Congress Had Right to Meet Public Emergency.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, March 19.—Upholding the right of congress to legislate along any lines designed to meet a public emergency the supreme court today, by a vote of 6 to 3, upheld the Adamson Eight Hour Law for railway employees.

In its decision, however, the court made the most radical advance in its history when it ruled that employees of public service organizations have not the right to strike in concert.

"That right," declared Chief Justice White in enunciating what yet may be characterized as revolutionary law and lead directly to public ownership of public utilities, "is necessarily surrendered when the men are engaged in public service. They are comparable to soldiers in the ranks, who, in the presence of enemies of their country, may not desert."

Washington, March 19.—The Adamson eight-hour law passed by congress several months ago when the railway brotherhoods first threatened a nation-wide strike, and providing the basic eight-hour day for railway employees, is constitutional, the United States Supreme Court declared this forenoon. The decision was in the case of the Missouri, Oklahoma and Gulf Railway, which was agreed upon by both sides as the test case.

The right of a group of railroad workers to strike in concert as a result of wage differences was denied, in the course of the majority opinion, by Chief Justice White. This principle may readily prove the most important of the decision, as the danger of a nation-wide strike was averted today, before the court passed on the opinion. Knowledge that the supreme court holds this view is apt to have a pronounced effect on future attempts by railroad workers to better their conditions.

"The right to strike in concert, is necessarily surrendered when the men are engaged in the public service. They are comparable to soldiers in the ranks, who in the presence of enemies of their country may not desert."

Five of the judges held that the law was constitutional because it met public emergency. Justice McKenna held it constitutional on the ground that it fixed hours of labor, making six for it. Justices Day, Vandever and Pitney dissented absolutely.

The law was attacked by the railroads because it specified that the engineers, firemen and trainmen should be paid as much for eight hours' work beginning January 1, as they did for ten hours prior to that time, except, of course, where the eight-hour basis of pay was already in effect. The opinion of the supreme court reversed the decision of Judge William C. Hook of Kansas City, that the law was invalid.

A HIGHLAND GIRL DEAD FROM BURNS

In using kerosene oil to light a fire in the kitchen stove Friday evening, Miss Goldie Rhodes, aged 17, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jonah Rhodes of Bailey's Corners, near Highland, received burns which caused her death an hour and a half later. The stove exploded with great force, its blazing contents being scattered about the room. An eight months' old infant in the room was also burned seriously about the head and hands. The child has a chance for recovery. Dr. Becker and Dr. Preston hurried to the Rhodes home and relieved the sufferers as much as possible.

Fire Changes Dinner Plans.

Secretary Roland B. Woodward of the Rochester Chamber of Commerce will be the speaker at "the get-together" dinner of the Poughkeepsie Chamber of Commerce tonight. It will probably be held at the Nelson House as the Morgan House, scheduled to serve the dinner, burned this morning. Kingston will be represented by one or more of the Chamber of Commerce directors.

Saturday Night a Busy One for Police—Man Wanted His Clothes—Another Wanted a Bum Ejected—Husband and Wife Quarrel.

Saturday night was an usually busy one at police headquarters at the city hall and the men on reserve duty who usually have it rather easy were kept jumping until early Sunday morning. The first sign of trouble was when a young man clad in a jumper and overalls appeared at police headquarters and informed Sergeant Hanley that he was very anxious of donning his Sunday best but his wife refused to let him in the house to get his clothes. The sergeant assigned Policeman James V. Simpson to the job and he accompanied the young man who wanted his clothes to his home on Smith avenue. When they reached the scene they found the house dark. Nobody home and the doors were locked. While had left and gone to father's it was later ascertained. From last reports her hubby did not attend church as he had not secured his clothes Sunday.

When Officer Simpson reported back at the city hall he arrived just in time, as a riot call came in over the telephone from Cedar street where it was reported a royal row between hubby and wife—not the couple who had trouble over the clothes—was underway. Policeman Simpson was hurried to the scene and found that when hubby was beating his wife a neighbor hurried to her rescue and had administered a beautiful black eye to hubby. As usual when neighbor blacked hubby's eye, wife turned on the neighbor, who had come to her assistance and tried to assist her husband in ejecting him, but the neighbor retired in good order, a wiser man. No arrests were made as hubby and wife had patched up their troubles.

Following the two calls for help peace reigned at the city hall but only for a short time when at 3:30 a. m. Sunday the telephone bell began to jangle and Sergeant Hanley who answered the phone received the information that a man wanted a policeman at his home to eject a bum. Policeman Dukan was sent to the scene and ejected the bum. It was learned that father had gone out Saturday night and had had a glorious time and had run across the bum and after a few drinks together had invited him home for the night. Father and the bum both calculated to bunk in together when they reached home, but son who heard them enter the house, had decided objections to the bum sleeping with the old man and so telephone for help. The call for aid came from the Promised Land.

WAR CLOUD LOOMS LARGE AND NEAR

Washington Opinion Seems to be That the Time for Talking Has Passed—Official Report of Loss of Three Ships.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, March 19.—The time for talking has passed!

That was the position taken by the national capital today following the latest German submarine outrage in sinking the City of Memphis, Illinois and Vigilance. There was little disposition anywhere to lessen the gravity of the situation.

The few officials who have been hoping against hope that the German announcement of unrestricted submarine warfare did not mean what it said, and that the American ships would be spared, today admitted that they had been in error. No American ship is safe anywhere on the high seas, officials said, unless adequately armed for defense. Had the City of Memphis and the Illinois been armed they might not have been sunk. The Vigilance saw no trace of the submarine which destroyed her and armament would have made no difference in that case.

Consul Frost, at Queenstown, in reporting additional details, told that Captain Borum and eight others still are missing from the City of Memphis. His dispatch, evidently filed yesterday, follows:

"Thirty-three survivors, City of Memphis, do not include Captain L. P. Borum and four other Americans and four not Americans but indications are that these are saved on board some merchant or admiralty vessel which has no wireless. Captain's boat did not separate from others until 1 p. m., and was picked up empty at 10 a. m. Weather meanwhile remaining moderate.

"Vessel cleared Cardiff 16th in ballast with 58 persons, including 23 Americans. At 3:55 p. m. 17th submarine fired warning shot from three miles or starboard quarter.

"Vessel was stopped. Submarine approached to one mile fired once more, fragments striking vessel, ship then only being able to read submarine's signal to abandon ship. Instantly captain replied by long blast whistle signifying comprehension then gave four short blasts signal to take to boat immediately and which was done in five minutes about 4:15, no injuries.

"Submarine then came up halled captain's boat fired eight shots sinking vessel at about 4:40 p. m. Apparently time of conversation with captain's boat at present unknown. Weather heavy, southwest swell, moderate southwest breeze, sky generally, weather improved during night.

"First officer's boat picked up by Admiralty ship 3:45 a. m. today. Chief engineer's boat, 6:30 a. m. today by same vessel landed at Queenstown 4:30 p. m. today without accident.

"City of Memphis carried wireless but did not use same, carried no guns, no attempt to resist or escape. When captain is located he may have further evidence.

"Survivors here include First Officer Charles G. Laird, Chief Engineer W. J. Percy, Assistant Engineer Fred Bevil, M. J. Dierlam, Third Officer W. M. Thompson, Third Engineer P. J. Donohue and T. J. Welch, wireless operators and eight other Americans, ten Spaniards, two Danes, one each Swede, Russian, Chilean. City of Memphis was stopped by submarine Feb. 4 off Scilly. Failure to use wireless this time was due to experience of former occasion, inducing belief that ship would probably be passed if wireless not started. Survivors will assemble Queenstown pending instructions from owners, Ocean Steamship Company, Pier 55 North River, New York."

American Mineral Oil

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Use of Mineral Oil.

Dr. Le Tanneur contributes to the Paris Medical some practical points in the use of mineral oil in constipation. The oil, he says, is in no way digested or even modified by the juices of the stomach and intestines. It acts as a lubricant and nothing else, though it tends to heal abrasions of the intestinal wall caused by rough particles of food.

The New York Medical Journal says mineral oil should be taken either before breakfast or after dinner, two tablespoonfuls being a dose. Its use should be continued every day for at least a fortnight, when the bowels will continue to work naturally without it, for the mineral oil is in no sense a cathartic, but it will cure constipation.—Kingston Daily Freeman, February 17, 1917.

NORWICH SUNK AT HER DOCK

Old Ice King Sprung a Leak This Morning at Her Winter Berth—Ice in River Still Holding.

The Norwich of the Cornell line sprung a leak this morning at her berth at the Lindsley dock near the Cornell shops and sunk. Efforts will be made to pump her hull free of water when the tide goes out. The ice king has been berthed at the Lindsley dock all winter. She is resting on the bottom of the creek and no difficulty is expected in raising her.

The cold spell of Sunday night and this morning stiffened up the ice in the river which is still holding, but unless unforeseen weather conditions prevail it is not expected that the Odell of the Central Hudson line will experience much difficulty in breaking a track through on Wednesday when she will come up the river to Rondout. The boats of the Central Hudson line are now running between Poughkeepsie and New York.

TIRES OR TIRE ?

Recall that wild ride the night you battled the elements for every inch? Sure you do. Every motorist has had a few.

Your mental strain was focused on EACH one of the four tires on your car.

At such a time, MILLER TIRES present their best argument. The thought that EACH one of your MILLERS was brimful or rugged strength to endure—gave you confidence.

MILLERS will pull you through where others give up the battle.

Give us a chance to prove MILLER stamina.

ELLENVILLE

Ellenville, March 19.—The ladies of the Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church held the March meeting at the home of Mrs. C. T. Hawhurst on Park Street Thursday afternoon last. The subject was "India," and the leader Mrs. W. H. Moser. The following ladies assisted by reading articles upon the subject: Mrs. E. E. Count, Mrs. G. F. Andrews, Mrs. E. A. Smiley, Mrs. James E. Sherman, Mrs. F. J. Potter and Mrs. Ira Schoonmaker. That same evening the ladies assisted the Rev. W. H. Moser at the church, at the pleasant night entertainment. India was the subject, and the ladies read the papers on India, in charge of Mrs. Moser, and this was followed by the motion pictures, one reel of the beautiful vale of Cashmere, India, setting forth the habits and customs of the people as well as the beautiful mountain scenery.

The old red mill property of Low and Tice at the West End, containing about two acres of land, and the grist mill and saw mill buildings, which were sold at public auction on Friday morning last, at 10 o'clock, were bid in by Lawyer Raymond G. Cox for about $200 above the mortgage of $2,000.

Mrs. A. V. Keeler entertained a company of friends at Edgebrook Club house Thursday evening, in honor of her aunt, Mrs. F. S. Cable and daughter, Miss Dorothy Cable, of Hinsdale, Ill.

Miss Florence Gaskell has accepted a fine position as assistant superintendent with Miss Olive D. Schoonmaker, superintendent of the Co-Operative Kitchen at Montclair, N. J.

Edward Vanderlyn has gone into partnership with Gerow Van Wyck at the Wayside Inn Garage.

The Misses Mary Brown of Center Street and Fannie Brown of Broad Street are visiting Walter Brown and family at Walkkill.

Miss Mary Smith is in New York purchasing goods for her millinery parlors in the brick block on Canal Street.

Village election will be held at Firemen's Hall on Tuesday between the hours of 11:30 a. m. and 3:30 p. m. The following officers are to be voted on: A president for one year, two trustees for two years, a treasurer for one year, a collector for one year, an assessor for three years. Also, the following propositions are to be voted on: The sum of $3,600 for lighting purposes in the village; the sum of $400 for the fire companies; $500 to defray expenses of the health department; $1,000 for the purpose of grading Canal Street from Main Street west to the corporate limits of the village; cobbling gutters from Main Street to the Five Points; and $3,000 for the purpose of erecting a Standard fire alarm that will comply with the requirements of the state board of fire underwriters.

The members of the Epworth League are to hold a pleasant evening with a musical program in the lecture room of the Methodist Episcopal Church Tuesday evening. The young people style it a dine social. All friends are invited to attend.

Owing to the illness of Mrs. O. B. Sarre at Yama Farms Inn, she was not able to give her lecture on Friday evening under the direction of the Forum, but will do so at an early date to be announced. Mrs. Chester Young, entertained the members of the Whist Club at her well appointed home on Napa road Saturday afternoon. Following the games the hostess served delicious refreshments and the ladies enjoyed with them a very pleasant social intercourse.

The Pioneers celebrated the 60th anniversary of their organization on Friday evening at their home, Norbury Hall. There was a large attendance of the village people, who were glad to pay their respects to this honored fire company. The members gave royal welcome to all attending. There was dancing for the young people to enjoy, games of various kinds for the older ones attending. Refreshments and a social time for everyone. Altogether a pleasant affair.

The March meeting of the members of the local Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be held at the home of Mrs. Frank J. Potter on Park Street, Wednesday afternoon. An interesting program has been arranged by the president, Mrs. E. A. Smiley, for the meeting. All the village ladies, whether members or not, are welcomed at the meetings.

At the Reformed Church Sunday morning the pastor, Rev. W. S. Malnes, delivered a very able sermon. The subject was "Lilies Among Thorns, or Caesar's Saints." Miss Evelyn B. Bailey contributed a beautiful soprano solo. The theme of the pastor's sermon for the evening was "Who Was Adam?"

Rev. Thomas Davies, rector of Christ's Church, Marlborough, will preach in St. John's Episcopal Church Wednesday evening Lenten sermon.

Rev. C. B. Gruver of Albany occupied the pulpit of the Lutheran Church on Sunday morning and evening.

Sheridan Ogden, wife and children and Walter Ogden of New York spent Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ogden, on Center Street.

Mrs. S. G. Catlin of Bloomfield, N. J., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. George B. Holmes.

Miss Evelyn B. Bailey of New York spent Sunday with her mother in Ellenville, guest of her sister, Mrs. C. F. Taylor, and family.

The following officers elected for the ensuing year of the Reformed Church Sunday school: Superintendent, Dr. Charles H. Van Kirk; first assistant, Russell T. Cookinham; second assistant, Edward Bishop; secretary, Edward C. Douglas; treasurer, S. A. Van Wageningen; pianist, Miss Julia Hoornbeek; assistant, Miss Zelma Ahrens.

Doesn't Worry Them.

Shortage of paper does not worry the persons who visit the hostess only to write letters on hotel stationery.

Universal Service. Certain-teed stands for universal service.

In every part of the world you will find Certain-teed products "doing their duty", in all kinds of weather and under all conditions—rendering Universal Service of the best kind.

Certain-teed Roofing gives Universal Service to all who use it. For factories, office buildings, farm buildings, garages, etc., CERTAIN-TEED is the efficient roof. It costs less to buy, less to lay and less per year of life. It is light-weight, clean, sanitary, weather-proof and fire retardant. For residences CERTAIN-TEED Slate Surfaced Shingles have all the advantages of CERTAIN-TEED Roll Roofing, plus artistic beauty. CERTAIN-TEED is guaranteed for 5, 10 or 15 years, according to thickness (1, 2 or 3 ply), but lasts longer than the period of guarantee.

If you are building or need a new roof, it will pay you to investigate CERTAIN-TEED before deciding upon any type of roof. Sold by leading dealers all over the world at reasonable prices.

Certain-teed Paints and Varnishes give Universal Service because they are good, dependable products, honestly made from high grade materials, by expert paint men, and guaranteed to give satisfaction. Mixed by modern machinery which eliminates the uncertainties of hand mixing and insures absolute conformity to the expert's formula on the label. The extensive organization for selling and distributing all CERTAIN-TEED products reduces costs to a minimum and makes it possible to sell CERTAIN-TEED Paints and Varnishes at very reasonable prices.

Whether you do your own painting or employ a painter it will pay you to insist on getting CERTAIN-TEED. Any good dealer can supply you. If he doesn't carry CERTAIN-TEED he can get it for you.

DRAPED SKIRTS.

The Peg Top Has Brought
In Tassels and Jackets.

The really, truly newest yet in all-hocette is that affected by the draped skirt, worn with flowing sleeves, ball tassel sash ends and wide spreading hat.

How this type of skirt is devised is interesting. It looks like a straight, rather narrow skirt, cut extra long, then just looped up on each side to shorten it to the required length, giving a puffed effect that somewhat resembles the barrel, the peg top, or whatever you care to call the side indicated appearance of some of the new skirts.

Tassels form the finish for the draping of these skirts, and the effect is really pleasing, especially when the fabric is one that drapes softly.

An interesting model of this type recently seen was a fine dress serge, decorated with a twelve inch banding of hand embroidery, done in a contrasting color, the tassels being of the embroidery color.

Following in the trend of the draped skirt is the flounce skirt, with a close fitting under or drop foundation. And then the long, luscious skirt, with flaring pockets on each hip.

Then there is the straight, gathered skirt, flaring at the hem; then a straight line skirt, not more than two yards and many times less than this, with a short, full tunic, either plaited or gathered.

Some straight skirts have a cute little apron tunic, plaited and set across the front of the skirt. Other straight skirts have an apron tunic effect back and front, the back apron being longer than the front.

Next comes, quite as a matter of course, the perfectly slim, straight skirt, close and trim and fashionably short, a fitting mate for the slim, straight jacket with which it is designed to be worn.

FOR BIRD LOVERS.

Hints About the Care of Your Canary Each Day.

Canary birds are a joy when they sing and such comfort for a home-maker when she is alone, but they surely make a great deal of mess. Most women find that the cages really should be cleaned every day and the door under which they hang brushed at the same time. If several pieces of paper cut the shape of the bottom of the cage are used the cage will only have to be cleaned once a week.

Each day lift the top piece of paper out, and the next piece will be spotless. A good plan which bird lovers often use is to make a bag for the cage.

This bag may serve a double purpose if wanted. Make it long enough to fit the entire cage, so that it may be tied all over at night to protect the bird from the glaring light and cold. In the day this same cover may be tied about the middle of the cage. It is held in place by a drawstring. This prevents the bird from throwing the seeds on the floor. Marquisette and dotted swiss are good materials for this purpose.

The Linoleum Rug.

If you have an irregularly shaped kitchen and rent your house instead of owning it do not try to cover the entire kitchen floor with linoleum. Probably it will not fit the new kitchen when you move, and it is rather expensive to have it cut to fit the kitchen where you are. Instead, have a large linoleum rug made, just as you would have in any other room, and have it bound with dark tape. Leave a border around it two feet or so, and have this oiled and finished so that the floor can be wiped with a mop and dusted.

Pastel Shades in Voile.

Among the faintest dresses for wear at semitropical resorts or for summer are those made of fine cotton voile in pastel shades and in white. Tan, Copenhagen blue, gray, wistaria, helix and light rose are taking well. In straight line styles with touches of hand embroidery or beading in soft colors is also selling freely.

Compensatory.

Life is compensatory to this extent: When a man reaches the point at which his wife is compelled to make the living for the family he has also reached the point at which the fact comes to humiliate him.—Topeka Capital.

Not a Woman
Of Finance

By WILLIAM CHANDLER

I'm not a new woman's man. I believe in the woman of the past, the dear, innocent creature who depended on man for everything. I'm married to a woman who will never trouble me by telling me how I should manage my business. Adele knows no more of business than a kitten knows about untangling a ball of yarn.

One evening soon after Adele and I were engaged I went to see her and found her in a very happy mood. She told me that her father, in order to prepare her for certain responsibilities that she might encounter as a wife, had put $500 in the bank to her credit for her trousseau and had given her a pass book and a check book. Her father showed her how to enter her deposits and bring down her balances in her check book. Occasionally she was anced and see that the balance brought down in the same as the balance in her check book.

A month later, when I went to see Adele, I found her in tears.

"What's the matter, dearest?" I asked, drawing her to me and kissing away the tears.

"I'm in awful trouble."

"Tell me. Perhaps I can help you."

"Why, you know papa put the money for my trousseau in the bank and gave me a check book. When I had used up the money I left my pass book in the bank to be balanced. On its return to me I was delighted to see that I still had more than $200 in bank. Several additional garments I needed made up $197. I thought them and gave checks for them. This morning the clerk at the bank telephoned me that my account was overdrawn $100, and this afternoon my milliner accused me of giving her a check for $87 on a bank where I had no money. She threatened to send me to prison, but papa satisfied her by giving her another check on his own bank. Don't you think it was very mean of my bank to treat me that way?"

I told her she probably had not considered that all the checks she had given out had not been presented for payment when she received her pass

book from the bank but, taking it make her understand the problem, I agreed with her that the bank had treated her shamefully. What could have been more refreshing than the dear girl spending $500 instead of $590 for her trousseau and blaming the bank for refusing to stand the difference? I regretted that the knot between us had not been tied, depriving me of the privilege of turning in a couple of hundred more to meet the deficiency.

Not long after this the telephone bell called me, and Adele poured another trouble over the wire.

"Oh, Frank," she moaned, "I have lost $50."

"How did you do that, pet?"

"Why, I drew a check for that amount to pay a bill at Osterhauser's. I do got hold of it and tore it into bits. I have nothing left to pay the bill and am ashamed to go to papa for any more money."

What a chance for me to make a gift to my sweetheart that etiquette forbade.

"I'll tell you what to do, darling. I'll give Osterhauser's a check for your bill. We are to be married so soon that it will be all right for me to do so."

"Oh, no; I couldn't do that."

"Well, then, draw another check for the amount, and I will put my name on the back of it."

"Will that be all right?"

"Of course it will."

"And you won't be paying the bill?"

"Certainly not."

This satisfied her, and she had no more trouble with her finances until a few days before our wedding, when she was threatened with arrest for forgery. This is how it happened:

She had spent over $1,200 for her trousseau, and there were still bills outstanding. Her father, being called out of town, had told her that if any amounts that must be paid came to him during his absence she was to draw checks for them in his check book on his own bank. He would notify the bank that she was authorized to sign for him.

Money was needed during his absence, and Adele drew a check on the bank, signing her father's name, but not adding to the signature, "By Adele."

The person who presented the check was accused of having forged the signature. He declared that he had received it from Adele and was so indignant at the fraud perpetrated against him that he swore out a warrant for her arrest. Her father being absent, I was sent for posthaste. Examining the check, I saw that she had imitated her father's signature.

"Why did you do that?" I asked.

"Why, I thought I should write it as near the papa would as possible."

I settled the matter by explaining it and giving my own check in place of it.

When Adele's father came home he received an apology from the bank for having declined to pay the check drawn by his daughter according to his directions. The clerk had not known that a woman existed who was not aware that imitation of a signature is forgery and forgery is a crime.

My wife and I have been married for ten years, and I do not regret her stupidity in financial affairs. I take care of such matters myself. She has all she can do to look out for the children. There are many things in her sphere about which I am as stupid as she is in mine.

Peculiar Superstition.

If fake teeth could talk, they would tell strange tales. A former wife attributed her good luck with a certain kind of delicious cookery for which she was famous to the fact that the mold with which she always cut out the cookies was a set of false teeth willed to her by an aunt who, in her time, had been able to cook to bent the land. Success crowned her culinary efforts because she worked with this weird and unwieldy crescent of worn-out teeth. Thus both superstition and us captive!

Air Resistance In Tunnels.

When a train goes through a tunnel the resistance of the air is an important factor, experiments having demonstrated that it measures 12.38 pounds per ton of train weight in the Simplon tunnel, as against only 3.8 pounds in the open air, a difference of over 30 per cent. This is when the train is running at 37 miles an hour in the direction of the ventilating air current; when running in the opposite direction the resistance increases to 20.46 pounds.

Ferns That Grow Everywhere.

Two ferns are common throughout the world. One is the common brake found on the floors of all California canyons, known as Pteridium aquilinum. The other is the polypoid found on rocky canyon sides and known here as Polypodium Californicum, and elsewhere, the world over as Polypodium vulgare. The specific differences are due entirely to geographic range.

More Acceptable Than Money.

It is not written blessed is he that feedeth the poor, but he that considereth the poor. A little thought and a little kindness are often worth more than a great deal of money.—Ruskin.

Grader or Drag.

This device can be attached to an ordinary farm wagon and used either as a grader or drag. The slanting bar carries the scraper blade and is attached to a blade which prevents the scraper blade from rocking. When used as a drag the scraper blade is removed and the chain attached to rings on the ends of the two long bolts which hold the side bars together. The side bars then act as the drag.—Agricultural Digest.

NO BLAZE OF GLORY FOR SEASON'S CLOSE

Kingston High School Basketball

Teams Lose Three Games on Saturday, Closing Day of the Season.

The high school's exit from the 1916-17 basketball arena was a most gloomy one. Three defeats were the results of Saturday's games, all of which were played on foreign courts. The varsity was decisively vanquished by Monticello, 20-17, but one point margins and partial referees decided the fate of the Midgets and girls' fives, the former losing to the high-caliber Cathedral Academy team of Albany by a 36-35 score and the girls emerging from a female tussle at Rhinebeck with the nether side of a 15-14 count.

Having played the best game of their career and with victory almost sure, the Midgets, with fifty seconds to play and leading by two points, were given the worst decision that the poorest referee could make. Dwyer, always a clean player, was slugged in the stomach by his opponent and instead of the Albany player being punished, Dwyer was found guilty of "holding." The throw was made good and shortly after the same Albany man, profiting by Dwyer's weakness, scored the winning field basket.

The championship of eastern New York was at stake, the Cathedral Academy prior to this having been unbeaten, while the Kingston Midgets were masters of the down-river country. With their hearts set on victory, the Kingston boys played a wonderful game against their heavier opposition in spite of the strangeness of the court, with every nook of which the Albany team was familiar. The capital city aggregation relied upon long shots, while the Kingston team, through its fast passwork, scored nearly all their points from a short distance.

Kingston got the jump at the start. At half time they were leading 21-16. Slowly the Albany boys broke down this lead until within a minute from the end of the contest they were but two points in the rear. When by the help of the officials, they squirmed ahead. It was a pretty tussle and thrilled the crowd present.

Contrary to the rules the Albany contingent would not allow Kingston to have a referee for one half. Mr. Torley of Albany officiated the whole game. Challenged to play a return game, they would not accept. Fifteen fouls were detected on Kingston and eleven on the winners.

Martin celebrated what will probably be his last game in a Midget uniform by scoring some wonderful shots, all of which totaled sixteen points. Kirchner and Dwyer, pitted against some very strong players, did good guard work. Quick at center got the jump on his man nearly every time and had a conspicuous place in the passwork. Schoonmaker, though opposed to a good man, played a good game. The second part of lineup, observant of St. Patrick's Day, has a green tinge, as far as names go.

Patched up Varsity Fatal.

Hallinan's ineligibility caused a bad opening in the varsity team Friday night which was hard to fill. Bill Wilson was worked at center, Johnson shifting to guard, and the combination failed to work as smoothly as usual, with an unfortunate result—a 30-17 score. Many longfals of argumentation couldn't disprove the fact that Monticello has a corner of a school team, so the defeat loses much of its sting.

Nearly all the locals were in poor condition, all had an "off" night. Johnson played a hard game. In all, the Kingstonians tallied only six field baskets during the game. Monticello was every bit as good as when in Kingston and on their own floor got in some pretty shots. Trowbridge just about pocketed the game himself, scoring 14 points. Of twelve chances, on the foul line he scored 10. La Barr also starred.

At half time the score was 16-5. This was the varsity's final game. During the season they have won nine and lost three games. Mr. Moulton accompanied the team. The lineup:

Rhinebeck's Gentle Violets.

There must have been some Hohenzollern blood in the Rhinebeck lassies that trimmed Kingston's noble offsprings. In the Dutchess hamlet Saturday, for the latter returned with harrowing tales of such barbarity as hair pulling in the tense moments of the game, which atrocities were uncharacterized by the local referee, who let them slide, as a matter of course. As the battle waxed furious, the Rhinebeckers got real affectionate and were fairly clinging to the Usterites. It all was a real strenuous affair, but luckily the locals had two victories to their credit, so the result did not affect their possession of the valley championship.

The locals led at half time by a score of 9-5, but were unfamiliar with such football tactics as were indulged in by their opponents in the last period and lost 15-14. The Kingston girls were so gosh hanged peeved at their "conquerors" that they wouldn't bring their score across the river for registry on the sporting page, but here's Kingston's:

FRITZ MAISEL.
JINX GOES INTO TRAINING WITH THE YANKEES.

The Yankees' celebrated Jinx has arrived at the training camp at Macor, Ga. It is the same Jinx that cost the Yankees the American League pennant last season, when by his machinations he put all of the Yankees stars on the injured and sick list.

First evidence of the arrival of the Jinx was found in an accident to Fritz Maisel. He is the first Yank to be stricken down this season. His left foot is badly gashed as a result of trying to tag Angel Aragon as he came sliding into second base.

DRESSING A WOUND.

Use Soap in an Emergency, and It Will Prevent Infection.

The danger of infections, even from slight abrasions of the skin, is as prevalent so thoroughly today that no intelligent person will willingly neglect slight cuts or bruises where it is possible to give such injuries first aid treatment with some kind of dressing. Frequently, however, there are none of the usual remedies at hand, but a cake of soap is almost always available, and this substance makes an excellent dressing, as European army surgeons testify.

The favorite substance of the surgeons for dressing wounds before the days of antiseptic dressings was a solution of castile soap. The usual method of dressing a wound at that time was to wash it thoroughly with the soap, allow the surface to dry and then apply lint and bandages. The soap removed the germs from the wound, but as the bandages and dressings were not sterilized these dressings frequently contained bacteria which infected the wound. If the surgeon had gone one step further with his castile soap dressing and dipped his lint into the soap before applying them or rubbed the moistened soap into the lint his treatment would have been much more effective.

Every one should bear in mind, therefore, that any kind of soap makes a good emergency dressing and should be used as a covering for freshly injured surfaces if nothing better is available. A strip torn from a handkerchief, with the moistened soap rubbed into the meshes and bound over the wound, will prevent infection from outside sources. And if the wound has been thoroughly cleansed with soap-suds it is probable that no other dressing will be required.—Los Angeles Times.

WHEN LOST IN THE WOODS.

Do Not Hurry Nor Get Excited, but Follow These Rules.

What would you do if you got lost in the deep woods? How would you proceed to get out, and how would you make yourself comfortable until you did get out or were rescued?

Herman Templeton, a Maine guide of many years' experience, has the following lists of dos and don'ts for those who may find themselves lost.

First.—Sit down and think it over.

Second.—Stay where you are, so that the men who are not lost will have some chance of finding you; if you wander around they will have almost none.

Third.—If you cannot stay still, but must try to get out, follow a stream or a logging road downward, and you will eventually come out somewhere in open country.

Fourth.—When you stop build a fire and keep comfortable overnight.

Don't get excited, don't travel in a circle once you discover you have been doing so; don't hurry at any time; don't worry under any circumstances.

"The trouble with most people is that they get in a hurry when they are lost, lose their heads and wander around almost blindly," said Mr. Templeton. "The greatest reason why people get lost is lack of observation. They fail to observe the country when they are going into it, and when they start to come out, although they may be on the right track, they do not recognize the country enough to follow the right course."

"Every man going into the woods should have a compass and a thorough knowledge of how to use it. With that knowledge and the ability to observe the country a man can travel in the deep woods safely even without previous experience."—Boston Globe.

Fireproof Clothing.

On account of the number of children who yearly lose their lives through their clothing catching fire, a physician recommends that all children's clothing should be fireproofed by their parents by a method which he found to be harmless and satisfactory.

Soaking any fabric in a solution of ammonium phosphate, which can be bought at any drug store, in the proportion of one pound to two quarts of water will, after five minutes, render the material fireproof until it is again washed out or it comes in contact with water.

The Laugh is on the People.

The Tokyo station is architecturally a joke and practically a failure, but it is a most imposing pile nevertheless. It must be a quarter of a mile in length. Incoming passengers enter at one end, and outgoing travelers leave at the other, but if they want to go from one end of the station to the other they have to go out and around, for the center is reserved for the emperor.—Christian Herald.

Between Girls.

"Well, as I was away the dear boy couldn't kiss me."

"True. But if he could have got hold of your powder puff he wouldn't have known the difference, would he, dear?"—Kansas City Journal.

A Joke.

She—I strongly disapprove of leaving the word "obey" in the marriage ceremony. He—Oh, leave it there, my dear. It puts a little needed humor in the solemnity.—Baltimore American.

SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS ADAMSON EIGHT HOUR LAW

Men Gain Shorter Work Day and Lose Right to Strike, Employees of Public Service Corporations Being Like Soldiers, Who May Not Desert—Congress Had Right to Meet Public Emergency.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, March 19.—Upholding the right of congress to legislate along any lines designed to meet a public emergency the supreme court today, by a vote of 6 to 3, upheld the Adamson Eight Hour Law for railway employees.

In its decision, however, the court made the most radical advance in its history when it ruled that employees of public service organizations have not the right to strike in concert.

"That right," declared Chief Justice White in enunciating what yet may be characterized as revolutionary law and lead directly to public ownership of public utilities, "is necessarily surrendered when the men are engaged in public service. They are comparable to soldiers in the ranks, who, in the presence of enemies of their country, may not desert."

Washington, March 19.—The Adamson eight-hour law passed by congress several months ago when the railway brotherhoods first threatened a nation-wide strike, and providing the basic eight-hour day for railway employees, is constitutional, the United States Supreme Court declared this forenoon. The decision was in the case of the Missouri, Oklahoma and Gulf Railway, which was agreed upon by both sides as the test case.

The right of a group of railroad workers to strike in concert as a result of wage differences was denied, in the course of the majority opinion, by Chief Justice White. This principle may readily prove the most important of the decision, as the danger of a nation-wide strike was averted today, before the court passed on the opinion. Knowledge that the supreme court holds this view is apt to have a pronounced effect on future attempts by railroad workers to better their conditions.

"The right to strike in concert, is necessarily surrendered when the men are engaged in the public service. They are comparable to soldiers in the ranks, who in the presence of enemies of their country may not desert."

Five of the judges held that the law was constitutional because it met public emergency. Justice McHugh held it constitutional on the ground that it fixed hours of labor, making six for it. Justices Day, Van Devanter and Pitney dissented absolutely.

The law was attacked by the railroads because it specified that the employees, firemen and trainmen should be paid as much for eight hours' work beginning January 1 as they did for ten hours prior to that

In using kerosene oil to light a fire in the kitchen stove Friday evening, Mrs. Goldie Rhodes, aged 17, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jonah Rhodes of Bailey's Corners, near Highland, received burns when the stove exploded with great force, its blazing contents being scattered about the room. An eight-months' old infant in the room was also burned seriously about the head and hands. The child has a chance for recovery. Dr. Becker and Dr. Preston hurried to the Rhodes home and relieved the sufferers as much as possible.

BEER contains about 92 per cent. water and about 5 per cent. of extract derived from hops and cereals, principally Barley malt, and only about 3 to 4 per cent. alcohol.

Beer in the Great War

Long ago the French Government officially classified beer, wine and cider as "boissons hygieniques" (hygienic beverages) and that it adheres to this view is evinced by its legislation prompted by the European War, which does not interfere with these products, though it does restrict the use of heavy spirituous liquors and prohibits only the manufacture and sale of absinthe.

Great Britain, despite the protests of some total abstinence organizations, continues to license the sale of alcoholic beverages.

The German Government, recognizing the value of beer, issues it as a ration to the Army, and has requisitioned 20 per cent. of the entire output of all the breweries for this purpose.

Although Canada has prohibitory laws in nearly all of its provinces, it permits the unlicensed sale of beer and an alcoholic beverages testing less than two and a half per cent. proof spirits, that is, about one and one-quarter per cent. by weight.

Italy, Serbia and Montenegro have made no restrictions on drink.

Russia has prohibited vodka but gives Local Communities the optional right of selling beer and other fermented beverages.

A recent London Hospital Report says:

"Beer is, par excellence, the nutritive alcoholic beverage. When a man drinks beer he drinks and eats at the same time, just as when he eats a bowl of soup. These beverages contain all the elements of a typical diet, with the exception of fat, and in a proportion approximately physiological."

ALL SORTS OF FAMILY TROUBLES

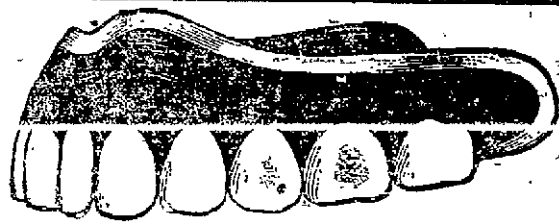

Saturday Night a Busy One for Police—Man Wanted His Clothes—Another Wanted a Bum Ejected—Husband and Wife Quarrel.

Saturday night was an unusually busy one at police headquarters at the city hall and the men on reserve duty who usually have it rather easy were kept jumping until early Sunday morning. The first sign of trouble was when a young man clad in a jumper and overalls appeared at police headquarters and informed Sergeant Hauke that he was very anxious of donning his Sunday best but his wife refused to let him in the house to get his clothes. The sergeant assigned Policeman James A. Simpson to the job and he accompanied the young man who wanted his clothes to his home on Smith avenue. When they reached the scene they found the house dark, muddy home and the doors were locked. Wife had left and gone to father's it was later ascertained. From last reports her hubby did not attend church as he had not secured his clothes Sunday.

When Officer Simpson reported back at the city hall he arrived just in time, as a riot call came in over the telephone from Cedar street where it was reported a royal row between hubby and wife—not the couple who had trouble over the clothes—was underway. Policeman Simpson was hurried to the scene and found that when hubby was beating his wife a neighbor hurried to her rescue and had administered a beautiful black eye to hubby. As usual when neighbor blacked hubby's eye, wife turned on the neighbor, who had come to her assistance and tried to assist her husband in ejecting him, but the neighbor retired in good order, a wiser man. No arrests were made as hubby and wife had patched up their troubles.

Following the two calls for help peace reigned at the city hall but only for a short time when at 3:26 a. m. Sunday the telephone bell began to jangle and Sergeant Hauke, who answered the phone received the information that a man wanted a policeman at his home to eject a bum. Policeman Dukau was sent to the scene and ejected the bum. It was learned that father had come out Saturday night and had had a glorious time and had run across the bum and after a few drinks together had invited him home for the night. (Father and the bum both calculated to bunk in together when they reached home, but son who heard them enter the house had decided objections to the bum sleeping with the old man and so telephone for help. The call for aid came from the Promised Land.

American Mineral Oil

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Use of Mineral Oil.

Dr. Le Tanneur contributes to the Paris Medical some practical points in the use of mineral oil in constipation. "The oil, he says, is in no way digested or even modified by the juices of the stomach and intestines. It acts as a lubricant and nothing else, though it tends to heal abrasions of the intestinal wall caused by rough particles of food. The New York Medical Journal says mineral oil should be taken either before breakfast or after dinner, two table-spoonfuls being a dose. Its use should be continued every day for at least a fortnight, when the bowels will continue to work naturally without it, for the mineral oil is in no sense a cathartic, but it will cure constipation.—Kingston Daily Freeman, February 17, 1917.

WAR CLOUD LOOMS LARGE AND NEAR

Washington Opinion Seems to be That the Time for Talking Has Passed—Official Report of Loss of Three Ships.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, March 19.—The time for talking has passed!

That was the position taken by the national capital today following the latest German submarine outrage in sinking the City of Memphis, Illinois and Vigilance. There was little disposition anywhere to lessen the gravity of the situation.

The few officials who have been hoping against hope that the German announcement of unrestricted submarine warfare did not mean what it said, and that the American ships would be spared, today admitted that they had been in error. No American ship is safe anywhere on the high seas, officials said, unless adequately armed for defense. Had the City of Memphis and the Illinois been armed they might not have been sunk. The Vigilance saw no trace of the submarine which destroyed her and armament would have made no difference in that case.

Consul Frost at Queenstown, in reporting additional details, told that Captain Borum and eight others still are missing from the City of Memphis. His dispatch, evidently filed yesterday, follows:

"Thirty-three survivors City of Memphis do not include Captain L. P. Borum and four other Americans and four other Americans but indications are that these are saved on board some merchant or auxiliary vessel which has no wireless. Captain's boat did not separate from others until 1 p. m. and was picked up empty at 10 a. m. Weather meanwhile remained moderate.

"Vessel cleared Cardiff 16th in ballast with 68 persons, including 29 Americans. At 3:55 p. m., 17th, submarine fired warning shot from three miles on starboard quarter.

"Vessel was stopped. Submarine approached to one mile fired once more, fragments striking vessel, ship then only being able to read submarine's signal to abandon ship. Instantly captain replied by long blast whistle signifying comprehension then gave four short blasts signal to crew to take to boats immediately and which was done in five minutes about 4:15, no injuries.

"Submarine then came up hailed captain's boat fired eight shots sinking vessel at about 4:40 p. m. Apparently time of conversation with captain's boat at present unknown. Weather heavy, southwest swell, moderate southwest breeze, sky squally, weather improved during night.

"First officer's boat picked up by Admiralty ship 3:45 a. m. today. Chief engineer's boat, 6:30 a. m. today by same vessel landed at Queenstown 4:30 p. m. today without accident.

"City of Memphis carried wireless, but did not use same, carried no guns, no attempt to resist or escape. When captain is located he may have further evidence.

"Survivors here include First Officer Charles G. Laird, Chief Engineer J. J. Eury, Assistant Engineer Fred Bevil, M. J. Dierlan, Third Officer W. M. Thompson, Third Engineer P. J. Donohue and T. J. Welch, wireless operators and eight other Americans, ten Spaniards, two Danes, one each Swede, Russian, Chilean. City of Memphis was stopped by submarine Feb. 4 off Scilly. Failure to use wireless this time was due to experience of former occasion, inducing belief that ship would probably be passed if wireless not started. Survivors will assemble Queenstown pending instructions from owners, Ocean Steamship Company, Pier 55 North River, New York."

Sounds Deceptive.

Someone has estimated that there are 20,000,000 cats in this country. Inasmuch as a few cats may sound like millions at certain uncanny hours at night, we demand a count.—Pittsburgh Post.

Such it Was.

Twelve baldheaded men were jurors in a Massachusetts hair-restorer case. "Is this justice?" asked the Brooklyn Eagle. "It may be retributive justice," suggests the Albany Argus. Let's call it destiny.—Buffalo Times.

Logical.

A Romanian scientist says that old age is due solely to a decrease in the amount of water in the human system. That sounds reasonable. Were you ever acquainted with a fish who died of old age?

100 and each of you are hereby cited to show cause why a surrogate court should be held in and for the county of Kingsburg, surrogate's office in the city of Kingston, in said county, on the 30 day of April, 1904, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, why the last will and testament of SARAH E. RESTOR, late of the city of Kingston, Ulster County, deceased, presented to said surrogate's court should not be admitted to probate as a will of the said SARAH E. BERLIN ADMITS ARMY FELL BACK

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Berlin, via Saville Wireless.
March 18.—French trenches on the Verdun front, over a width of 500 yards, were captured by the Germans in storm attacks yesterday afternoon, the war office announced today.

Eight French officers and 485 men were captured. Counter attacks by the French during the night were repulsed.

There was violent fighting on both sides of the Meuse river.

Near the North Sea coast and in Artois there has been lively fighting activity.

The war office again admitted a general retreat between Arras and the Alsace (Somme front), saying that the British offered no strong resistance and followed in a "hostile" manner.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Some seven voice pupils of Miss Virginia Los Kamp gave a very pleasing recital for their friends at the Y. M. C. A., on Saturday afternoon. While informal in character, such recitals in addition to their enjoyment give the young vocalists valuable experience in appearing before an audience.

On Friday, Miss Theda Miller entertained the Misses Edna Scherick, Maude Dudley, Laura and Nellie Hildes, Winifred Low, Vera Van Slesburgh, Gertrude Byrne, Pearl Smith and Marjorie Tillson at a St. Patrick's Day candy pull. A very enjoyable afternoon was spent in pulling candy and refreshments were served at 6.

An interesting evening was spent in dancing. Miss Miller was assisted by her sister Clara, who was dressed as an Irish lassie and waited upon table.

MORGAN HOUSE IS BURNED TO GROUND

Other Business Buildings Suffer in Poughkeepsie Fire—Loss Will Reach $400,000—Many Guests Figured in Rescues by Police.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., March 19.—Fire today destroyed the Morgan House and two business buildings here and seriously damaged the department store of Wallace and Company. Members of the Tenth infantry are now doing guard duty about the burned buildings. Three firemen were injured. The loss is estimated at $400,000.

Nearby buildings were threatened and thousands of dollars worth of automobiles were being removed from the big Van Benschoten garage to the north. A strong northwesterly wind was blowing and the firemen were having the worst fight they have had in years.

The entire department, assisted by the whole night shift of the police department and a squad of Company E, N. Y. State Guard, of Catskill, quartered at the state armory were called into action, the latter assisting the police in caring for the crowds and protecting property. Escape for guests in the hotel was cut off because of the dense smoke filling the main stairway. The firemen soon raised ladders to the windows and from the third floor two men and two women were carried down to safety.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

Mary O'Sullivan, widow of Montgomery, died on Sunday at Creek Lake, aged 85 years. The funeral will take place from the residence of Mrs. Calvin Mowell, with whom she made her home, on Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock and will be private. Friends wishing to view the remains may do so on Wednesday between 11 a. m. and noon. The interment will be at Hurley and will be private.

The funeral of Captain William Green was held this morning from the residence on Albany street and thence to St. Mary's church, where a solemn high mass was solemnized for the repose of his soul. The celebrant was the Rev. John McLaughlin, and the burials were in St. Mary's cemetery.

Margaretta Deane, widow of James S. Haskinbrook, died Sunday of heart disease at the home of her son, George C. Haskinbrook, at West Park. She was a former resident of Rosendale, and a member of the Episcopal church. She is survived by three children, Mrs. Deane Davis of Kingston, George C. Haskinbrook of West Park, and Nicholas Haskinbrook of West Park, N. J., also two grandchildren, James A. Davis and Edith M. Haskinbrook, and a number of other relatives.

Vernon D. Lake, of 148 Fair street, died on Saturday afternoon at the Benedictine Sanitarium, after an illness of ten days of pneumonia, aged 74 years. Mr. Lake was a son of Albert Lake and Colinda V. Chapman, his wife, and was born at Windham, Greene county, on December 9, 1842. His early life was spent at Hensonsville, Greene county, and in 1860 at the age of 18 he enlisted in Company K of the old New York Cavalry and served until the close of the Civil War. Although Mr. Lake saw active service and took part in fourteen battles he passed through the war unharmed with the exception of once being injured when he was thrown from his horse. Mr. Lake was with Sherman during his famous march from Atlanta to the Sea and accompanied Sherman during the entire march. Mr. Lake was a carpenter and millwright by trade, but he had not actively engaged in that trade for many years. He was one of the best known hotel men in the county, having for years conducted the Woodstock Hotel, and after selling this property he went west to Missouri, where he engaged in the building of zinc for a time, but after being west for three or four years he returned east and bought the Rhinebeck Hotel, which he conducted for fourteen years. He also conducted the Pine Hill Hotel during one summer. Nine years ago he sold the Rhinebeck Hotel and retired from active life, coming to Kingston to live. At the time buying the property on Fair street where he resided at the time of his death. Mrs. Lake died during October, 1913. She was Sarah A. Higgins, sister of Sherman and Emerson Higgins of this city. Three sons were born to them, only one, Emerson J. Lake of this city, survives. There are three grandchildren and two great grandchildren. Besides his son, Mr. Lake is survived by one brother, Frank R. Lake, of Durango, Colorado, and two sisters, Mrs. Lamont Ellinger and Mrs. Ellinger Longyear. Mr. Lake was a member of Kingston Lodge of Elks, the Free and Accepted Masons, the G. A. R. and an honorary member of the P. O. S. of A. of this city, and was a devoted member of the St. James M. E. Church. The funeral services will be held from his late residence, No. 148 Fair street, on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the Rev. Dr. Baragranath being in charge of the services. The interment will be in Whitwick cemetery, conducted with Masonic honors by the members of Kingston Lodge, No. 10, F. & A. M.

CABINET MAKING UNDERWAY IN FRANCE

Paris, March 19.—The name of M. Painleve was put forward today as a likely successor to Aristide Briand, who resigned as premier. It is reported that M. Briand probably will not have a post in the new cabinet.

The huge task of creating a new cabinet has fallen on Alexander Ribot, present minister of finance, and for more than forty years a conspicuous figure in governmental affairs. He agreed to try to bring order out of the present instability at the request of President Poincaré.

MOTORCYCLE HITS MILLER'S TAXI

This afternoon a motorcycle driven by Philip Lawrence, of East Kingston ran into a taxi cab on Elmwood street, wrecking the motorcycle and damaging the taxi. At the time Earl Hider also of East Kingston, was riding in the sidecar attached to the motorcycle, and he was somewhat injured by the collision. Lawrence had turned off of Broadway into Elmwood street and one of Miller's taxicabs was coming out of the street toward Broadway. It was stated that the accident was due to the fact that Lawrence lost control of his motorcycle. That one was badly injured was considered a miracle by those who saw the condition of the motorcycle after the accident.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

New York, March 19.—Buying became more vigorous in the late forenoon and around midday many issues sold at the highest prices touched this year. Steel Common jumped to 14 1/4. The railway equipment issues and the minor steel industrial made vigorous advances.

With Republic Iron and Steel advancing to above 32 and Sloss-Sheffield to 68 1/2. Industrial Alcohol advanced from 124 1/2 to 127. Bethlehem steel issues were well bought, the A. advancing to 13 1/2 and the B to 12 1/2. Union Pacific sold at 133, Reading at 95 1/2, Erie at 27 1/2, St. Paul at 52 1/2, Atchafalpa at 103 1/2, and other railway stocks ruled fractionally above yesterday's close. Money loaning at 2 1/2 per cent.

General strength was shown in the late afternoon when heavy buying caused a general "boom" in the railway issues. Union Pacific rose to 141, Lehigh Valley to 109 and Reading, after selling at 95 1/2, rose to 98 1/2. Many of the industrial made further advances, with Bethlehem Steel B selling at 129 1/2. Republic Iron and Steel jumped to 84 1/2, and Steel Common to 115 1/4.

The market closed active and strong. A continued demand offset the usual profit taking in the late dealings and nearly every issue closed close to the range established in the earlier trading.

ROSE-GORMAN-ROSE INC.

MRS. WILLIAMS HAD WHISKEY JAG

Then She Refused to go Home With Hubby and Officer Ryan Escorted Her to Jail—John S. Rose Was Also Drunk.

Mrs. May Banks Williams, of 616 Broadway, made her first appearance in recorder's court this morning when she was arraigned before Recorder Lang charged with being drunk and using profane language on Broadway near Field Court on Saturday evening. She had been arrested by Policeman Ryan.

It developed that May had gone out for a good time and she informed the court that she had drunk whiskey. Her husband had met her on Broadway and had urged her to come home, but she had refused and waxed profane. Then the officer appeared on the scene and May was taken away.

This morning Recorder Lang sentenced her to three months in the pen at Albany but suspended sentence during good behavior. The reason May got off with a suspended sentence was due to the fact that she had a young child at home waiting for her. The court warned her that the next time she was brought before him she would surely go to the penitentiary.

John S. Rose, 48, years old, was arrested Saturday night by Policeman Dugan, who found him on Broadway helplessly drunk. John is employed by Mr. Curry, who has taken over Hotel Roman and his employer furnished bail for John's appearance today before Recorder Lang. As this was the first time that John had been arrested, Recorder Lang gave him another chance and discharged him.

Grader or Drag.

This device can be attached to an ordinary farm wagon and used either as a grader or drag. The clamping bar carries the scraper blade and is attached to a blade which prevents the scraper blade from rocking. When used as a drag the scraper blade is removed and the chain attached to rings on the ends of the two long bolts which hold the side bars together. The side bars then act as the drag. —Agricultural Digest.

NO BLAZE OF GLORY FOR SEASON'S CLOSE

Kingston High School Basketball Team—Lose Three Games on Saturday, Closing Day of the Season.

The high school's exit from the 1916-17 basketball arena was a most gloomy one. Three defeats were the results of Saturday's games, all of which were played on foreign courts. The varsity was decisively vanquished by Monticello, 29-17, but one point margins and partial referees decided the fate of the Midgets and girls' fives, the former losing to the high-schooled Cathedral Academy team of Albany by a 26-25 score and the girls emerging from a female tussle at Whitebeck with the rather side of a 14-14 count.

Having played the best game of their career and with victory almost sure, the Midgets, with fifty seconds to play and leading by two points, were given the worst decision that the poorest kind of a referee could dole out. Dwyer, always a clean player, was slugged in the stomach by his opponent and instead of the Albany player being punished, Dwyer was found guilty of "holding." The throw was made good and shortly after the same Albany man, profiting by Dwyer's weakness, caged the winning field basket.

The championship of eastern New York was at stake, the Cathedral Academy prior to this having been unbeaten while the Kingston Midgets were masters of the down-river country. With their hearts set on victory, the Kingston lads played a wonderful game against their heavier opposition in spite of the strenuousness of the court, with every nook of which the Albany team was familiar. The capital city aggregation relied upon long shots, while the Kingston team, through its fast passwork, scored nearly all their points from a short distance.

Kingston got the jump at the start. At half time they were leading 21-10. Shortly the Albany five broke down this lead until within a minute from the end of the contest they were but two points in the rear, when by the help of the official they squandered ahead. It was a pretty tussle and thrilled the crowd present.

Contrary to the rules the Albany contingent would not allow Kingston to have a referee for one half. Mr. Torley of Albany officiated the whole game. Challenged to play a return game, they would not accept. Fifteen fouls were detected on Kingston and eleven on the winners.

Martin celebrated what will probably be his last game in a Midget uniform by scoring some wonderful shots, all of which totaled sixteen points. Kirchner and Dwyer, pitted against some very strong players, did good guard work. Quick at center got the jump on his man nearly every time and had a conspicuous place in the passwork. Schoonmaker, though opposed to a good man, played a good game. The second part of lineup, observant of St. Patrick's day, has a green tinge, as far as names go.

Patched up Varsity Fatal.

Illian's ineligibility caused a bad opening in the varsity team Friday night which was hard to fill. Bill Wilson was worked at center, Johnson shifting to guard, and the combination failed to work as smoothly as usual, with an unfortunate result—a 26-17 score. Many lungfuls of argumentation couldn't disprove the fact that Monticello has a roster of a school team, so the defeat loses much of its sting.

Nearly all the locals were in poor condition, all had an "off" night. Johnson played a hard game. In all, the Kingstonians tallied only six field baskets during the game.

Monticello was every bit as good as when in Kingston and on their own floor got in some pretty shots. Troubridge just about pocketed the game himself, scoring 16 points. He scored 10. La Barr also starred.

At half time the score was 16-5. This was the varsity's final game during the season. They have won nine and lost three games. Mr. Boulton accompanied the team. The lineup:

Whitebeck's Gentle Violets.

There must have been some Hollenbeck "Good in the Rhinebeck" ladies that trimmed Rhinebeck's noble shoulders in the Rhinebeck handkerchiefs. For the latter returned with Rhinebeck's tales of such nobility as hair pulling in the tense moments of the game, which attracted the referee, who let them slide, as a matter of course. As the battle waxed furious, the Rhinebeckers got real affectionate and were fairly clinging to the Violets.

It all was a real strenuous affair, but luckily the locals had two victories to their credit, so the result did not affect their possession of the valley championship.

The locals led at half time by a score of 9-5, but were unfamiliar with such football tactics as were employed in their opponents in the last period and lost 14-14. The Kingston girls were so well banged around at their "conquerors" that they wouldn't bring their score across the river for registry on the winning page, but here's Kingston's tally:

FRITZ MAUSEL.

JINX GOES INTO TRAINING WITH THE YANKEES.

The Yankees' celebrated Jinx has arrived at the training camp at Macon, Ga. It is the same Jinx that cost the Yankees the American League pennant last season, when by his machinations he put all of the Yankees stars on the injured and sick list.

First evidence of the arrival of the Jinx was found in an accident to Fritz Mausel. He is the first Yank to be stricken down this season. His left foot is badly gashed as a result of trying to tag Angel Aragon as he came sliding into second base.

DRESSING A WOUND.

Use Soap in an Emergency, and It Will Prevent Infection.

The danger of infections, even from slight abrasions of the skin, is appreciated so thoroughly today that no intelligent person will willingly neglect slight cuts or bruises where it is possible to give such injuries first aid treatment with some kind of dressing. Frequently, however, there are none of the usual remedies at hand, but a cake of soap is almost always available and this substance makes an excellent dressing, as European army surgeons testify.

The facultative substance of the surgeon is the first aid dressing before the days of antiseptic dressings was a solution of castile soap. The usual method of dressing a wound at that time was to wash it thoroughly with the soap, then apply the dressing. The soap, when applied to the surface of the wound, removed the germs from the wound, but at the same time the dressing, which was not sterilized, frequently contained bacteria which infected the wound. If the surgeon had gone one step further with his castile soap dressing and dipped his lint into the soap before applying them or rubbed the moistened soap into the lint his treatment would have been much more effective.

Every one should bear in mind, therefore, that any kind of soap makes a good emergency dressing and should be used as a covering for freshly injured surfaces if nothing better is available. A strip torn from a handkerchief, with the moistened soap rubbed into the meshes and bound over the wound, will prevent infection from outside sources. And if the wound has been thoroughly cleansed with soap and it is probable that no other dressing will be required.—Los Angeles Times.

WHEN LOST IN THE WOODS.

Do Not Hurry Nor Get Excited, but Follow These Rules.

What would you do if you got lost in the deep woods? How would you proceed to get out, and how would you make yourself comfortable until you did get out or were rescued?

Herman Templeton, a Maine guide of many years' experience, has the following list of dos and don'ts for those who may find themselves lost:

First.—Sit down and think it over. Second.—Stay where you are, so that the men who are not lost will have some chance of finding you. If you wander around they will have almost none.

Third.—If you cannot stay still, but must try to get out, follow a stream or a logging road downward, and you will eventually come out somewhere in your country.

Fourth.—When you stop build a fire and keep comfortable overnight.

I don't get excited, don't travel in a line once you discover you have been doing so; don't hurry at any time; don't worry under any circumstances.

The trouble with most people is that they get in a hurry when they find they are lost, lose their heads and wander around almost blindly," said Mr. Templeton. "The greatest reason why people get lost is a lack of observation. They fail to observe the country when they are going into it, and when they start to come out, although they may be on the right track, they do not recognize the country enough to follow the right course."

"Every man going into the woods

should have a compass and a thorough knowledge of how to use it. With that knowledge and the ability to observe the country a man can travel in the deep woods safely even without previous experience."—Boston Globe.

Fireproof Clothing.

On account of the number of children who yearly lose their lives through their clothing catching fire, a physician recommends that all children's clothing should be fireproofed by their parents by a method which is found to be harmless and satisfactory.

Soaking any fabric in a solution of ammonium phosphate, which can be bought at any drug store, in the proportion of one pound to two quarts of water will, after five minutes, render the material fireproof until it is again washed out or it comes in contact with water.

The Laugh is on the People.

The Tokyo station is architecturally a joke and practically a failure, but it is a most imposing pile nevertheless. It must be a quarter of a mile in length. Incoming passengers enter at one end, and outgoing travelers leave at the other, but if they want to go from one end of the station to the other they have to go out and around, for the center is reserved for the emperor.—Christian Herald.

Between Girls.

"I caught Harold kissing one of your girls."

"Well, as I was away the dear boy couldn't kiss me."

"True. But if he could have got hold of your powder puff he wouldn't have known the difference, would he, dear?"—Kansas City Journal.

A Joke.

She—I strongly disapprove of leaving the word "oh" in the marriage ceremony. He—Oh, leave it there, my dear. It puts a little needed humor in the solemnity.—Baltimore American.

Good Salesman.

"John, whatever induced you to buy a house in this forsaken region?"

"One of the best real estate men in the business."—Life.
